

QUICK PASSAGE OF $7,000,000,000 MEASURE URGED BY FORMER FOES OF BRITISH AID

Nazis Doubling Balkan Army; Yugoslavs Mobilize 1,250,000

German Thrust Believed Aimed To Hit Africa

Reports Say Berlin Plans To Cut Mediterranean Into Two Sectors.

By THE UNITED PRESS.
BELGRADE, March 18.—Germany has turned Bulgaria into a huge arsenal manned by an estimated 500,000 troops in preparation for a drive to cut the Mediterranean in two and carry the war to the British in Africa, reports reaching here said today.

To put this plan into execution, Germany's most urgent aim is to force Greece to capitulate. Once installed on the Peloponnesus peninsula, the Germans would be less than 250 miles from the African coast and, according to reports, it is Germany's aim to bridge the Mediterranean at this point and cut Britain's communications with the Near East.

Yugoslavia Mobilizing.
Despite reports in well-informed quarters that Yugoslavia's adherence to the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo pact was a matter of "only a few days," diplomatic circles in Istanbul said that Yugoslavia is massing troops along a southeastern defense line paralleling the Bulgarian frontier to resist any German thrust from that newly occupied neighboring state. The Yugoslavs were said to be calling men to the colors in a steady stream and expected to have 1,250,000 under arms by the end of March.

(Meanwhile, the Associated Press stated that Turkish military leaders were reported conferring with both British and Greek army chiefs as Britain's expeditionary force in Greece prepared anti-aircraft defenses against an expected German attack.)
Germany is said to have decided upon Bulgaria as its main base in southeastern Europe for two reasons—a desire not to disturb the Yugoslav "bread basket," and to prevent opening a German flank to attack from the Adriatic. Otherwise, the route into Greece down Yugoslavia's Vardar valley would have been chosen.

Nazis Preparing.
The Germans are reported building hydroplane bases near Varna and Burgas on the Black Sea to guard against attack from that direction.

The bulk of the huge German forces in Bulgaria are said to be concentrated along the line of Melnik and Nevrokop eastward-facing Greece.
The strongest German mechanized forces were reported moving continuously along the Sofia-Petric road. Infantry divisions were said to occupy both sides of this road and the left bank of the Struma river—which points at Greece's Salonika a few miles south of the frontier.

Scarcity of Skilled Labor Perils Defense

By The Associated Press.
A nation beset for years by the problem of unemployment heard from two government officials yesterday that a serious shortage of skilled workers exists and that there is a threatened scarcity of farm hands.

Discussing the skilled worker situation, Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, told a Washington conference on labor problems that the shortage was delaying a vast expansion of defense production. He advised manufacturers to undertake immediately a program of training less experienced men for more responsible jobs than they now hold.

Strikes continued to slow up production in some defense industries. President Roosevelt told his press conference that a new federal mediation board, with authority to seek adjustments of defense labor disputes, would be created today. Mr. Roosevelt, who will establish the board by executive order, told reporters he could not say whether it would be composed of 11 members, as previously reported.

The War Department evidenced particular concern over a tie-up of construction at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, where the Army Air Corps is developing a wind tunnel for the testing of 2,000 to 2,500 horsepower aircraft engines. An informant said that the department might take over the construction itself and finish the job with mechanics supplied by the Civil Service Commission if a settlement were not reached.

Other labor news:
Johnstown, Pa.—Operations at Bethlehem steel mills were reported to be "apparently normal" after a 24-hour union demonstration. CIO officials said 5,000 of the 15,000 workers had stayed away from their jobs in protest against an employees' election.

Washington—Merrill Meigs, chief of the OPM air division, testified before a house committee that three strikes were "definitely" delaying delivery of planes needed in national defense. He listed those at the Universal Cylinders Corporation, Bridgeville, Pa.; Harvill Aircraft, Los Angeles, and Wright Field.

Curb on Union Initiation Fees Awaits Signing

Senate, House Approve Amended Bill, Send It to Governor.

By LUKE GREENE.
Governor Talmadge last night held the answer to whether labor unions will be allowed to continue charging large initiation fees on national defense projects. The house yesterday afternoon passed with amendments Senator H. B. Edwards' bill which was designed to curb this practice and the senate concurred. The amendments permit voluntary contributions to labor unions.

Although labor representatives waged a heated battle to defeat the measure, it passed the house by a vote of 105 to 62. That was only two votes to spare, since 103 votes is necessary for passage.

Representative Cicero Kendrick, of Fulton, led the fight on the bill, declaring it was an insinuation that labor organizations were filled with "crooks, racketeers and thieves."

Kendrick's Warning.
He warned that if it passed Georgia's defense contracts would be cut off, forcing the state to lose "millions and millions of dollars."

At the same time the house passed another bill by Representative Roscoe Pickett Jr., of Pickens, requiring taxicab drivers to take customers to their destination or make them liable to damages not to exceed $100.

There was little debate on the taxicab bill and labor leaders, concerned more with the initiation fee measure, raised no serious objections. Representative Pickett pointed out the principal purpose was to prevent taxicab drivers from refusing to transport passengers to hotels or other places where a strike was in progress.

Etheridge Backs Bill.
Representative Paul S. Etheridge Jr., of Fulton, spoke in favor of the bill.

After passage of the initiation fee bill with amendments, the Edwards bill immediately was transmitted to the senate, where, at the request of the Valdosta senator, unanimous consent was given to adopt the house amendment.

When opponents of the bill learned they would not be able to have the action of the house reconsidered, a labor delegation rushed to Governor Talmadge's office to request a hearing on the Edwards measure before the Governor signs it. The chief executive agreed to hold a hearing Monday.

If the Governor does not veto the measure before the end of five days after it is submitted to him, it automatically becomes law. The fifth day will be Monday.

Among those speaking for the bill was Representative Walter Harrison, of Jenkins, who labeled it "a new declaration of independence." He charged that labor organizations had become "fabulously rich and drunk with power."

When the vote was announced, Kendrick immediately announced he would move for reconsideration, but another motion was made to transmit the bill to the senate. The latter motion carried by a rising vote. Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin losing in an attempt to have a roll call on the motion.

Callaway Quits As Chairman of Regents' Board

Loss of Time From Farm Projects Is Cited as Reason.

Cason Callaway, chairman of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, has submitted his resignation to Governor Talmadge with the request it be accepted and his successor on the board appointed before the legislature adjourns.

This was confirmed yesterday by the retiring chairman. The letter, dated February 28, pointed out Georgia's place among American land-grant colleges in point of salary paid faculty members and suggested "there is great danger of our ablest men being employed away from us."

Governor Talmadge would not indicate what steps he planned, telling questioners: "Wait until I get ready."

Text of the Callaway communication, in full, follows:
"When I accepted the chairmanship of the Board of Regents of the University System, I told the board that I would be unable to serve as chairman longer than a year at most, due to the amount of time being taken from my work here, which includes nine projects, in an effort to try to find some ways in which a Georgia farmer may increase his income. Two years ago I gave up all of my active connection with the textile industry, in order that I might devote my time and efforts to this purpose."

"I understand that there are certain appointments which you will have to make prior to the adjournment of the general assembly. In keeping with my

Jury To Probe Activities of Former Judge

J. W. Davis, D. E. Kaufman, William Fox Are Among Accused.

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—(P)—At the request of the Department of Justice, a federal grand jury was directed today to investigate charges that a retired United States circuit court judge, a former United States minister, and a one-time movie magnate, and several others had conspired to obstruct justice.

A communication from Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, which was made public by United States District Judge Guy K. Bard, the presiding jurist, appointed two New Yorkers as Jackson's special assistants to direct the inquiry.

Named in the charges were J. Warren Davis, of Lawrenceville, N. J., a retired judge of the third United States circuit court of appeals; David E. Kaufman, of Towanda, Pa., former United States minister to Siam; William Fox, one-time motion picture magnate, and five others.

Kaufman served as a federal court trustee for the old Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company while it was undergoing financial reorganization before Judge Davis.

Axis Downfall Seen as Result Of Allout Help

'America Will Turn on Industrial Power for Democracies.'

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 18. With less than a quarter of the membership present and passage a foregone conclusion, the house today heard the ranking Republican and Democratic members of its Appropriations Committee urge prompt approval of the nation's biggest peacetime appropriation bill—$7,000,000,000 for help to England, Greece and other nations which resist the Axis powers.

"This act will be a transfusion of new life to the beleaguered democracies of the world," said Representative Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia. "The world will see America with its unconquerable spirit, its vast and limitless resources turn on its great industrial power in a 100 per cent capacity effort to supply effective material aid to the defenders of freedom in the world. With this all-out American effort there can and there will be only one result and that is the ultimate downfall of the dictators."

Opposition's Attitude.

Representative Taber, Republican, New York, who voted against the lease-lend bill, said: "Regardless of what anyone's attitude might have been as to embarking upon a program of aid to Great Britain, to my mind there can be no question but what we have embarked upon the program and that we must furnish enough aid to Great Britain to permit Great Britain to win. Otherwise, we are in trouble."

The bill went to the house at noon from its appropriations committee, which after approving it, submitted a report saying that the United States must give full support in its British aid program or "become a faltering welcher" on its pledges.

Urging speed, it added: "The program now needs to proceed with the utmost expedition consistent with prudence if it is to have the effect which the law contemplated and which the American people unquestionably overwhelmingly approve."

Testimony Revealed.

Parts of the testimony given to the committee in secret session by ranking administration and Army and Navy officials were made public. Much was withheld, however. The committee expressed a hope that what might be "interesting news" to some Americans should not become "strategic news elsewhere to the harm of the very countries we are trying to assist."

Secretary Hull told the committee that the country should "go full out" in its assistance to Britain to keep "would-be-conquerors"

Five Billion United States Profits for 1940 Sets 10-Year Record

Survey Shows Highest Trade Index Since '29

Manufacturing, Mining Enjoy Major Share of Huge Gains.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(P)—Commerce Secretary Jones estimated today that profits of American business corporations reached $5,000,000,000 in 1940, making the year the most profitable since 1929.

The 1940 index was about 25 per cent larger than for 1939 or 1937, the two best previous years since 1929.

Jones said manufacturing and mining industries accounted for the major part of the 1940 gains. Profits of trade and utility corporations "moved ahead at a less rapid pace." Railroad earnings increased sharply.

Increases Cited.

Among manufacturing corporations, the best increases were iron and steel, machinery, aircraft, electrical equipment, railway equipment, nonferrous metals, automobiles, household furnishings, agricultural implements and lumber.

In another report on business conditions the Federal Reserve Board said that sharply increased production at shipyards and at factories producing machinery, aircraft and railroad equipment had advanced the board's index of industrial production in February to a new record high of 141 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

In the first half of March, the board added, "industrial activity increased further."

The 141 index figure for February was 25 points higher than in the similar month last year.

Production Gains. Other production gains in February, the board said, were in output of automobiles, cotton and woolen textiles, rubber and chemical industries. Orders piled up in the steel and lumber industries.

Coal production rose less than the usual seasonal amount, however. Petroleum output was near the average of the last three months.

New construction contracts declined somewhat, partly due to seasonal factors.

DEMAND FOR FARM PRODUCTS FORECAST.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(P)—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics said today that an additional improvement in consumer demand for farm products was indicated for the next several months, but that gains were likely to be more gradual than during recent months.

Growing effects of the national defense program on industrial activity, employment and consumer income are indicated, the bureau said, by rapid increases in spending under that program. The bureau said defense expenditures rose from a daily average of $7,000,000 last September to $21,000,000 in February, or a rate of $8,000,000 per year.

While pointing out that exports of farm products dropped to a new low in January, the bureau said the possibility of supplying some British needs suggested an increase in food exports, and possibly tobacco, within a few months.

While stating that there was no definite information available yet as to what products might be made available to Britain under the lend-lease program, the bureau said that country needed pork, lard, canned milk, butter, cheese, beef, fruits and vegetables. The bureau estimated that unemployment declined from 8,000,000 to 5,300,000 between March 1, 1940 and March 1, 1941. It predicted that the number would be decreased another 2,000,000 by late in the year.

from dealing with the United States as they have dealt with other nations.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the Army, testified that "the result will be to our advantage," adding that the appropriation would have a "very disturbing effect" on Britain's enemies and show the nations of this hemisphere "that we mean business."

Filling England's Needs.

Secretary Stimson asserted that the $7,000,000,000 would fill the needs of England so far as they are now known.

William S. Knudsen of the Office of Production Management revealed that the nation has a total of 784 plants available or in preparation for the production of military and naval materials. A total of $1,574,000,000 is being spent by the government on 302 of these plants, he said.

Since all the pros and cons of the British aid argument had been under discussion for months, the house displayed but little surface interest in the measure today. Fewer than 100 members were on the floor most of the time, and many of these paid little attention to the debate.

Both Woodrum and Taber have been foremost critics of the administration's domestic financial policy, and this was in many minds when Woodrum said: "It is a lot of money—$7,000,000,000—but it is not the largest appropriation bill ever passed by congress. During the World War we passed a $12,000,000,000 bill and a $7,500,000,000 bill, and a $6,000,000,000 bill.

Freedom Vs. Dollars.

"It is a lot of money. How are we going to pay the bill? I do not know. We will pay it, however, and we will have to raise the money from the taxpayers of America; but I believe that the time has not yet come when we can evaluate and measure American freedom and independence by a billion or two dollars.

"Is this all we are going to have to put up? I do not know.

"If you can tell me when the war will end and how it will end and what will be involved, I might be able to make a guess. But I do not know. I do know that I am convinced in my own mind that unless we take this action, we will most surely find the day coming when our country will have to meet the dictators and perhaps meet them alone."

Cold Retards Oglethorpe's War Strategy

Bantam Military Car Put Through Paces for Newsmen.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

FT. OGLETHORPE, Ga., March 18.—Sub-freezing cold that penetrated thick pants and many layers of sweaters and coats slowed up action in the second day of "war games" being staged here.

The morning was taken up with a co-ordinated advance of motorized and horse units of the Sixth Cavalry. A bantam car demonstration followed in the afternoon after more than a score of newspapermen ate a picnic lunch prepared at the fort's draft induction center.

The afternoon session was to have been devoted to construction of a raft on Harrison bay, an arm of the Tennessee river some 20 miles from here, and transportation of a bantam scout car and a 37-mm. antitank gun across the bay on the raft under power generated by the car's rear wheels.

Schedule Incomplete. But as noon drew near, with only the first phase of the war games over, it became apparent that the schedule would not be completed today.

Two other arrivals, observers from a federalized National Guard Regiment—were on hand for Tuesday's maneuvers. They were Major B. C. Walker, former editor of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph, and Lieutenant Colonel Walter A. Hardie, also of Harrisburg, executive assistant to the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania. Both are officers in the One Hundred and Fourth Cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard. They flew here from Injantown Gap, Pa., Monday afternoon.

Today's major problem was that an enemy had destroyed all bridges across a stream except one and that the sixth was to take the bridge.

Demolition Platoon. The regiment's pioneer and demolition platoon built barricades across the bridge to represent enemy fortifications. Then motorcycles and scout cars roared down the road toward the bridge to attract the attention of the enemy.

Meanwhile, a horse portee platoon, horse cavalry carried to the scene of action in vans before rushing into the fray, moved down another road to a ford, made a surprise crossing and enveloped the enemy from the rear, giving the mechanized units an opportunity to break the barricade and take the bridge.

Later bantam cars showed off their almost unbelievable stamina, climbing and falling down steep inclines, jumping long distances and riding through water of considerable depth without a raft.

Donovan Home After Tour of Battle Sectors

Returns After Visit to European Capitals, African Front.

(Picture on Page One)

NEW YORK, March 18.—(P)—Returning from a long tour of Europe and northern Africa, Colonel William J. Donovan said today he hoped his observation of many phases of modern warfare would enable him "to give information of value to our own country in preparation for its defense."

Donovan, one of 27 passengers who arrived from Europe on the Yankee Clipper, had toured the battlefronts and capitals of many nations since leaving the United States by plane December 6.

It had been reported that Donovan traveled as an unofficial observer for the Roosevelt administration and specifically for Navy Secretary Knox. Informed that Knox had said Donovan was traveling at his own expense and had no official status, the World War hero replied: "The secretary does not need corroboration."

Donovan's journey included private conversations with the leaders of nations and direct observation of important military actions.

Among the clipper passengers who arrived here with Donovan were Frances Aiken, Ireland's minister for defense co-ordination, and Dr. Eelco V. van Kleffens, prime minister of the Netherlands government in London.

Aiken said he came to this country to examine the possibility of getting all sorts of military supplies—complete equipment for 200,000 trained men—and, among other things, 30,000 tons of wheat. Dr. Van Kleffens said he was en route to the Netherlands East Indies to settle a number of interior problems.

U. S. Eagle Squadron Shows Itself Ready for Fighting Duty

A BRITISH AIRPORT, March 18.—(AP)—The American Eagle squadron strutted its stuff today in a breathtaking air show intended to make clear that this all-American unit is ready for combat duty, though it is now assigned to activities covered by the all-embracing word "operational."

The fliers, hopping into their Hurricane fighter planes, went through intricate precision maneuvers, roaring along wingtip to wingtip at more than 300 miles an hour.

They went through an entire series of maneuvers necessary to actual combat, commanded by their squadron leader, William E. G. Taylor.

Although they have not officially been on fighter duty, three of the group have been killed on active duty.

There are 46 American pilots available, and when the number reaches 50 a second Eagle squadron composed entirely of Americans may be formed.

The squadron is aided by three British flight officers, and members praised them for having "saved us the mistake of overeagerness."

All had more than 250 hours and up to 1,200 hours of flying time before joining the squadron.

But as one of them who has flown considerably over the Andes remarked: "Commercial and private flying are so different from military that we had to learn everything but elementary flying."

Taylor was described by a British liaison officer as "a damned good flyer and a man who knows more about planes than any man I ever saw."

The son of a United States Army officer, he was released from the fleet air arm to command the Eagles.

Storm Moves East, Closes Schools, Roads

Minnesota Governor Protests 'Inadequate Weather Warnings.'

By The Associated Press.
Governor Stassen of Minnesota said he had lodged a protest against "inadequate weather warnings" with Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones as the midwest cold storm which took at least 78 lives moved eastward before a mass of warm air. Twenty-eight of the dead were listed from Minnesota and 38 from North Dakota.

Relief was felt at the storm center but biting cold chilled the east, where no moderation was expected until Wednesday.

Roads, Schools Close.
High winds buffeted most of New York in bitter cold temperatures, forming snowdrifts that plugged many roads and closed schools, as a final element outburst directly or indirectly caused nine deaths.

Polar-born winds ranging from 16 to 35 miles per hour piled drifts so high in some central and western New York sections that state police advised no travel.

A family of five perished in a wind-fanned fire which destroyed their four-room home in West Colesville, near Binghamton. Firemen were hampered battling blazes in several other parts of the state.

The government forecaster at Chicago predicted relief would come more rapidly and that much warmer weather would reach the Atlantic coast by Thursday.

Swept by Gales.
Maryland and other seaboard areas were swept by gales and Maine temperatures ranged down to zero. Northern Vermont reported 10 below zero.

Wind velocities ranged from 20 to 30 miles an hour on lower levels to 99 miles an hour on Mount Washington in New Hampshire, where the mercury went to 20 below zero.

Alabama, along with the entire south except Florida and the Gulf coast region, felt freezing temperatures and frost was forecast for northern and central Florida Wednesday. Freezing weather was predicted for the Gulf coastal area.

Low temperatures in the south today included Nashville 20, Atlanta 22, Birmingham 26, Memphis 26 and New Orleans 39.

Callaway Quits As Chairman of Regents' Board

wishes as expressed to you and to the members of the board at the time of my acceptance of the chairmanship. I am asking that when you make these other appointments you relieve me and fill my place on the board of regents, to take effect at that time.

"I have been honored with membership on the board of regents since it was created. My interest in the work of the board and in the university system is known to you. Because of this, I am taking the liberty of making the following suggestions:

"1. The character of the members of the board of regents is paramount. The members of the board of regents should be men of recognized ability and integrity, who are willing to undertake an unselfish, disinterested and non-political public service.

"2. The appropriation for the university system should be approved, either by the legislature or the Governor, for a period of two years, preferably; and in any event, for one year.

"3. The appropriation for the system should cover an expanding agricultural program, including all counties to have agricultural agents where the counties themselves desire one, putting up their 50 per cent, and the appropriation should cover a scale of salaries comparative with the other southern schools of similar standing. A list of the 47 land grant colleges and universities in the United States in 1940-41 shows Georgia to be forty-first in salaries paid professors, forty-third in salaries paid associate professors, forty-fifth in salaries paid assistant professors, and forty-sixth in salaries paid instructors. The success of any institution must largely be governed by the personnel, and there is great danger of our ablest men being employed away from us, due to our present position as shown by these facts.

"I have enjoyed the work on the board of regents through these years, and the relations between you and me have been most pleasant. In leaving the board I wish to assure you of my hearty approval of the objectives toward which you are working, and my willingness to co-operate in every public service possible within the limits of my time and ability.

"The regents named him as chairman, June 7, 1940, to succeed Marion Smith. Previously he had headed the finance committee and the agriculture committee, and in connection with the latter advanced plans to improve Georgia farm conditions. He was originally named to the board by Governor Russell when it came into existence, January 1, 1932.

Labor Setup Adequate, Says Woman Conciliator
Uncle Sam's set-up to conciliate difficulties between capital and labor was described as adequate here last night by Rose Forrester, veteran conciliator with the Labor Department at Washington.

Speaking on "Industrial Peace" at a dinner given in her honor by the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers, she said present facilities are "adequate for any future situation" and discounted any need for emergency legislation to regulate labor.

Bill Allowing City School Tax Passed
The senate passed, last night, a bill permitting the city of Atlanta to continue levying a special one mill tax for the purpose of capital improvement of the city school system.

The tax was provided for by the 1937 legislature and set to expire at the end of this year. The bill approved last night extends the period indefinitely.

Garment Workers Resume Jobs Here
Striking members of the United Garment Workers (AFL) have returned to work in the Atlanta plant of Cluett, Peabody & Company, pending a decision by the National Labor Relations Board, it was announced yesterday by R.O. Kennedy Jr., plant manager.

The strike began several weeks ago when both members of the Garment Workers and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers (CIO) left their jobs. Later, the CIO union won a contract with the company at Troy, N. Y., covering three other plants, including Atlanta.

The Clothing Workers returned to work shortly after the contract was signed, but the Garment Workers, claiming numerical superiority, filed a petition for representation before the NLRB here. This hearing was held last week and decision is pending in Washington.

City Work Project Methods Criticized
Mayor LeCraw believes in speed but he wants the brakes applied to a custom which allows start on public improvements before work is specifically authorized by city council.

In a conference with Chief of Construction Clarke Donaldson yesterday, he asked that the long-established custom be suspended so that no work shall be done without definite instructions from council and provision of funds to pay the city's share of the expense.

During the past three days the Mayor has been called upon to act on three measures for improvements in the fifth ward, but the work he found had already been done and his signature on checks and resolutions was all that was needed to wind up details.

"That's just too fast for me," LeCraw said.

Help for Medical Students Approved
A $52,000 appropriation to provide scholarships for medical students who agree to practice in communities designated by the board of regents received the approval of the house yesterday. The vote was 161 to 1. The dissenting vote was cast by Representative Harley Jones, of Brantley.

Under the bill, one medical student from each congressional district would receive a $1,000 scholarship to the Georgia School of Medicine on the condition that the student go back to his local community for four years of practice.

Anne Whittlesey Has Police Guard

While local police authorities continued their search for Walter Groebli, 18, a former Atlantan, wanted in connection with the shooting of Percy W. Whittlesey, wealthy Nyack, N. Y., British War Relief worker, it became known last night that Whittlesey's attractive daughter, Anne, a student at Smith College, in Northampton, Mass., is now under a police guard as a result of threats against her life.

Groebli, who left Atlanta more than a year ago to become a house servant for Whittlesey, has been sought since the relief worker was shot six times on the night of January 19.

Disclosure that a guard had been assigned for the girl came after she left the college to spend a spring vacation at her home.

Pipe Line Bill Is Misplaced, Duplicate Used
Edwards Minority Report Brings to Light Loss of Document.

"Who stole the pipe line bill?" was the question of the morning yesterday, soon after the state senate convened. The official copy of the controversial measure was nowhere to be found.

Its loss was made public when Senator H. B. Edwards asked that Chairman A. L. Dorsey, of the general judiciary committee No. 2, file the unfavorable report his group agreed on Monday afternoon.

Edwards said he wanted to file a minority report favoring the bill when this was done. Senator Dorsey reported that the bill had not been seen since the public hearing last Thursday.

"Does this pipe line bill have legs and wings?" Edwards asked. "I want this thing cleared up so I can file my minority report and get some action before it's too late."

Senate Secretary Lindley Camp finally came to the rescue with a duplicate copy. The duplicate was established as the original, and Edwards filed his minority report.

Further action on the issue now rests with the rules committee.

Georgia Pipe Line Delay Echoes in U. S. House
WASHINGTON, March 18.—(P) Chairman Cole, Democrat, Maryland, of a house sub-committee investigating the petroleum and pipe line industry, said today witnesses from the office of production management would be heard at an executive session March 27.

Cole said his committee also was considering a controversy in Georgia over the extension of pipe lines by the Southeastern Pipe Line Company. The company was thwarted by a railroad company in condemnation proceeds, Cole said, and a question has arisen whether the federal government should not be given more control over pipe lines to insure an adequate oil supply in times of emergency.

"Undoubtedly, the government can do anything it thinks necessary," Cole said. "Our committee is trying to present a solution to the existing problems."

Enter National Defense
Some of them already are going into national defense industries. At Snellville, Instructo, Charley Guinn has sent four to Le Tourneau at Toccoa.

To the men from Washington, who started the program, and who yesterday traveled throughout this section seeing what progress it has made, the results are all they hoped for, and more. The boys are learning. When emergency is over and things settle down, these youngsters who have been trained under the press of national emergency will have a trade to make a living.

And even if there's no place for them in industry, then they'll be better able to farm. They'll know how to build houses, maintain their equipment, do mechanical jobs their fathers had to hire other men to do, or leave undone.

Yesterday's tour, led by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, and M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education, included Tucker, Chamblee, Panthersville, Snellville, Decatur, Bogart, Watkinsville and Athens. Breakfast was served at Tucker, luncheon at Decatur, and supper at Watkinsville.

The Washington group included W. R. Ogg, of the American Farm Federation; Fred Breckman, of the National Grange; Robert Handschin, of the National Farmers Union; Dr. Cecil W. Creel, of the Land Grant College Association; L. H. Dennis, of the American Vocational Association; and R. W. Gregory, of the United States Office of Education.

Robert M. Stiles, of Cartersville, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau, accompanied the group.

Other state officials on the trip were L. M. Sheffer, state supervisor for agricultural education, Miss Elizabeth Mayes, state supervisor for home economics education, and H. S. Burdette, state supervisor of the state department of education.

Boys' High Votes Down Coeducation
Declaring that traditions of Boys' High school must be preserved, that girls in the school would take the boys' minds off their studies; that girls would bring women teachers, and girls would "clutter up" the school, 55 students of the school yesterday in a straw poll voted against coeducation.

Alvin Saul and Marshall Hirsch, freshmen who entered the school last winter from Bass, circulated cards reading "Boys' High Forever—Down With Coeducation—No Skirts in Boys' High."

Best Red Cross Window Show Won by Rich's
Nearly Fifth of Membership Goal of 50,000 Is Reached.

Rich's, Inc., yesterday was awarded first prize in a contest of local merchants to produce the best decorated window in connection with the current Red Cross Roll Call, it was announced by Oby T. Brewer, roll call chairman.

Second and third prizes went to the Atlanta Gas Light Company and Three Sisters, Inc., in that order.

Mr. Brewer expressed appreciation for the interest and co-operation of firms which decorated windows to aid the roll call and said that total memberships yesterday had reached 9,348, or approximately one-fifth of the 50,000 goal.

Additional firms reporting 100 per cent enrollment included Oberdorfer Insurance Agency, Aetna Insurance Agency, Mutual Life Insurance Company, Osborn & Stribling, Hirsch Brothers, Arthur Anderson Company, Standard Oil Company, Addison-Rudsal Company and State Accounts office of the U. S. Treasury.

Rural Youths Learn Trades To Aid Defense

9,000 in Georgia Given Practical Training in Skilled Crafts.

By HAROLD MARTIN.
There was a sharp "pop," and the nozzle of the acetylene torch spouted a plume of yellow flame. Tommy Allen, who clerks in a store in the daytime and studies welding at night, turned a valve and the flame trimmed down to a sharp blue spike at the tip of the nozzle.

"You feed it the oxygen till you get a little blue flame with no feathers on it, and then you go to town," he explained to the group from Washington who watched him.

Then he slipped a strange man-of-war's hood with a dark-glass eyepiece in it over his head, and in the space of a minute or two had welded together two pieces of cold steel.

One of 132,000.
Tommy Allen, of Panthersville, is just one of 132,000 youngsters from 17 to 25 years of age, out of school and unskilled in any craft, who are learning a trade so that they may take their place in the national defense program.

Many of them are southern boys, for in the south are the greatest pools of willing and intelligent young men who need only a few months of instructions to turn them into capable welders, mechanics, carpenters and electricians.

There are 73,000 of them in the 12 southern states, and nearly 9,000 of that number are in Georgia.

Many of them are working, as Tommy Allen is, in some job which they feel holds a little future for them. Some of them aren't working at all, but are learning these trades so that they can go to work.

Many of them may never work on a job that is a part of actual national defense. They may never acquire the skill, for instance, to assemble an airplane motor. But they can replace in industry more skilled men who do go on up in the skilled scale to do these highly technical jobs.

Government Pays Cost.
The government is paying the bills for equipment, and for the services of teachers who are drawn from the ranks of the vocational teachers in the schools, or where the programs are set up, or from private industry—skilled men who teach a class a couple of hours a night, five nights a week for eight weeks.

They learn four things:

1. The operation, care and repair of tractors, trucks and automobiles, for a mechanized army can't run without mechanics.

2. Metal work, including simple welds, tempering, drilling, shaping and machinery repairs. The farmers of Georgia are getting their dull plows sharpened, their farm machinery repaired at no cost by these boys as they learn.

3. Woodworking. Many schools are building new buildings, with these boys doing all the carpentry work.

4. Electricity. These buildings are being wired by the boys who are learning the fundamentals of electricity.

Enter National Defense.
Some of them already are going into national defense industries. At Snellville, Instructo, Charley Guinn has sent four to Le Tourneau at Toccoa.

To the men from Washington, who started the program, and who yesterday traveled throughout this section seeing what progress it has made, the results are all they hoped for, and more. ## T. M. Bell Dies In 81st Year At Gainesville

One of Georgia's Most Colorful Political Figures; Rites Today.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., March 18. Thomas M. Bell, 80, former congressman from the ninth district, former clerk of Hall superior court, and one of Georgia's most colorful political figures, died at his home here today after two years' illness.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the First Methodist church here. The pastor, Dr. L. Wilkie Collins, will officiate, assisted by Dr. R. A. Forrest, of Toccoa. At Mr. Bell's request, John M. Slaton, former governor of Georgia and a close political friend, will participate in the services. The body will lie in state at the church an hour preceding the services. Burial will be in Alta Vista cemetery.

Mr. Bell was a native of White county, a son of the late William Bryan and Katherine McGee Bell, who were prominent in that section. Coming to Gainesville more than 50 years ago, he engaged as a traveling salesman several years, then offered for the post of clerk and was elected.

He served in that capacity six years. In his first race for congress he was opposed by the late F. Carter Tate and was elected after a heated campaign. He then was re-elected to the post for 26 consecutive years, having opposition each time except once. Among the most notable of his campaigns was that against the late Colonel William A. Charters, outstanding Georgian attorney.

Probably the most important post filled by Mr. Bell was that of chairman of the powerful post office and post roads committee, which position he held many years. He also was a member of the joint postal commission of the house and senate which toured the United States in 1925 investigating and recommending improvements in the postal service.

He did much toward expanding the postal system, especially among the rural sections, and was a strong advocate of better roads.

Following his retirement from political life, he had been connected with the Georgia Marble Company for 12 years as its representative in this section of Georgia.

Mr. Bell had been a member of the Methodist church more than 60 years, and was active in its affairs. His quiet philanthropies, many of which had never been made public, had extended especially into the rural districts.

He was a member of the Woodmen, Odd Fellows, Masons and Red Men.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Ella Winburn, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. J. B. M. Winburn of Gainesville; a brother, Oliver C. Bell, of Cleveland; three sisters, Mrs. E. H. Kenimer, Mrs. Maude Norton, both of Bishop; Mrs. Lilly Weatherly, Atlanta, and several nieces and nephews.

Thinks Everybody Should Join the Red Cross Society.

Several loyal workers in the American Red Cross membership "Roll Call" have asked me to give it a boost in this column.

I should have done it before this, without a suggestion.

But it seems like saying folks should wash their faces daily and refrain from stealing. Joining the Red Cross seems so obvious. Nobody should need reminding.

All the "organized charities" I know have been subjected to bitter criticism. Many cynics, perhaps to save their consciences from failing to contribute, want to know "where all that money goes."

But I never heard anybody ask that about the Red Cross, in war time or peace time.

Any person intelligent enough to read the newspapers fairly regularly discovers where his dollar goes.

He read about it in the days of the big Mississippi flood. He read about it whenever there was a big disaster anywhere. He read about it after the Gainesville and Albany tornadoes.

First on the scene after such a disaster are the cops and firemen and doctors.

But the Red Cross nurses and relief agents are close behind. I reached Gainesville while part of the town was still burning after the tornado—but the Red Cross was there ahead of me—and working too fast to talk to newspapermen.

You can contribute hugely and generously to the Red Cross so

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open for that purpose. All communication must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

TWO-TIME TROUBLE SHOULD BE ENDED

Editor Constitution: You were doing some fine work for the state in your admirable editorial, "Passed by the House."

The state has needed for a long time some standard time instead of changing from one time zone to another every few miles throughout the state. For instance towns seven or eight miles from each other find themselves one having eastern and the other central time. This gives considerable inconvenience to travelers and much valuable time is lost in really finding what time it is.

It is to be hoped the senate will follow the wise action of the house and pass the bill speedily in order that an all-impossible situation may be remedied quickly.

Thank you for your progressive stand in all that means for Georgia's best interests.

W. H. FAUST.

Atlanta.

RAPS MELLON FAMILY FOR "ALUMINUM TRUST"

Editor Constitution: In a recent Constitution under the head "Inescapable," you have quite a "say" about strikes tying up the most vital industry to our defense program, the "Aluminum Company of America."

I'm a regular reader of your paper, and to date I have not seen in print one word about the part the "Mellon Aluminum Monopoly" has played in furnishing Uncle Sam with as nice a little "aluminum" bottleneck as ever Herr Hitler himself could desire for this nation.

A double-barreled monopoly of aluminum and magnesium was one of the most serious "bottle-necks" slowing down production of airplanes and other defense equipment. It was reported in January. It was also denied, but the "alibis" did not sound convincing in the face of facts presented by two members of congress.

The controversy flared into the open when the Northrop Aircraft Corporation, of Hawthorne, Cal., announced that a shortage of aluminum had forced it to cut its production of vital needed planes by 20 per cent.

Other airplane manufacturers working girls who must pay for permanent waves, dry cleaning, manicures and who knows what in order that they may look right out of the bandbox—and hold their jobs. She considers those items a business investment. And so do I. I wish I'd kept track of my 1940 expenditures on hair-cuts, shoeshines and an occasional fresh shirt, purchased at 5 p. m. So I could go to a tea. When I had a perfectly good shirt at home.

Just a little sidelight on Europe—and the "situation." Mildred Seydel told me a day or two ago about a letter. Sent her by her mother and addressed to a hotel in Warsaw, Poland, where Mildred and Paul were assumed to be staying at that time. Which they were.

It came back to her last week. After two and a half years. Opened and read by censors. But very carefully put through the mill and sent back—to the return address. Mildred says it was a bit out-of-date but nevertheless welcome.

Buena Vista's weekly newspaper is named the "Marion County Patriot."

That sounds like war-time words, fellows. Wonder how far back that name started. Masthead doesn't say.

Army Officers Study Baldwin As Depot Site

Inspectors Shown Old State Prison Grounds During Weekend.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 18.—Baldwin county today was "in the running" for possible designation as the site of the projected southeastern Army air depot, members of the local defense committee said after showing an Army board of inspectors the advantages of the old state prison site during the weekend.

L. N. Jordan, chairman of the local group, said the Army officers "were apparently more favorably impressed than any of the groups who have inspected what we have to offer heretofore."

Chairman Jordan wired Congressman Carl Vinson a complete report of the Army inspection following the tour and predicted a vigorous follow-up in Washington.

The Army board made its inspection here after going over proposed sites in Atlanta, Macon, Albany and Vienna.

The Army men said, however, that other sites were yet to be inspected.

One-Way Streets Cause Changes In Car Routings

Because of the new City ordinance designating Pryor Street as a one-way street, northbound, and Ivy Street as a one-way street, southbound, two trolley lines will be rerouted.

These changes will be effective Thursday morning, March 20.

Georgia Avenue-Grant Park and Washington-Lakewood cars, Southbound, will leave their present routing at Pryor and Edgewood and proceed on Edgewood and Marietta to Broad; on Broad to Mitchell; and on Mitchell to Pryor, where they will resume the old routing.

On Northbound trips, cars on this line, carrying the Inman Park-Clifton and Inman Park-Ponce de Leon destination sign, will follow the old routing on Pryor Street.

On the Irwin Street and Boulevard-Forrest lines the following changes will be made: Northbound cars will operate on Mitchell to Broad and on Broad to Hunter. At that point they will leave the old route and proceed on Hunter to Whitehall, on Whitehall and Peachtree to Auburn and on Auburn to Ivy. From Auburn and Ivy, they will follow their old route on Auburn Avenue.

Our Supervisors and City policemen will be stationed at the more important downtown street intersections to assist you. Or call the Georgia Power Company, Walnut 6121, and ask for the Starter. He will be glad to give you the necessary information.

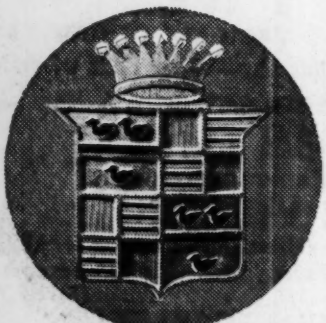

The other one-way streets which have been designated by City Council will not affect your service.

St. Lawrence Seaway-Power Plan Revived

Roosevelt To Submit Proposal in Few Days to Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) President Roosevelt told a press conference today he would send to congress within a few days a request for legislation for development with Canada of a part of the St. Lawrence seaway-power project.

He would not say definitely what he would recommend but indicated that it might include a seaway as well as power development.

The request, the President asserted, would be for legislation rather than a treaty which was defeated in 1934 because the senate failed to give it the required two-thirds vote.

The President would not say how much money would be asked.

Martha Scott Clippings Will Be Judged Today

Representatives of Martha Scott will decide today which of the clippings sent in by Constitution readers are suitable for a place in the stars, "Scrapbook of Human Emotions."

All those whose clippings and 200-word letters, describing the emotions their treasured clippings from The Constitution bring to mind, are deemed worthy of forwarding to Miss Scott will be invited to a dinner-dance and picture-show party Friday night, which Miss Scott is giving by proxy.

The invited guests for this Friday night dinner party will be announced in The Constitution tomorrow, so ample time will be given for making plans to attend. These guests will have dinner in the Paradise room of the Henry Grady hotel, where they will see a complete floor show, and can dance and sing. Later they will attend the opening night performance of "Cheers For Miss Bishop," at Loew's Grand theater.

It was while enacting the role of Ella Bishop in "Cheers For Miss Bishop," a story of the unfulfilled romances of a beloved school teacher who the pupils thought never had a chance to marry, that Martha Scott hit upon her idea for a "Scrapbook of Human Emotions."

Coast Guard Gives Up Search for Freighter

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) The coast guard today gave up search for the presumably-wrecked Brazilian freighter Mahukona, believed lost southwest of Bermuda on a coal-carrying trip from Norfolk, Va., to Rio de Janeiro. The cutters Bibb and Modoc found a few bits of wreckage including a life preserver bearing the name of the vessel yesterday, but located no further evidence of either the ship or its crew of 26 men, mostly Brazilians. Coast guard headquarters announced that a large area of ocean had been searched, and since further investigation appeared useless.

Radio Chief of U. S. Navy Moves To Weed Out Spy Operators

Fifth Column Sympathizers Imperil Ships

Merchant Masters Told To Report Suspected Men to FBI.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) The Navy's chief radio officer has warned congress that it is "urgently necessary to get rid of spy operators" in the American Merchant Marine.

In a statement submitted to a house committee considering legislation to control subversive activities at sea, made public today, Rear Admiral S. C. Hooper, representing the chief of naval operations, said that the Navy "strongly favors any legislation which will place loyal (radio) operators on all ships of our Merchant Marine."

"The history of the present war is full of examples of the effectiveness of the Fifth Column radio operator," Hooper said, adding that on "many occasions" shipmasters had been deceived by false messages and had diverted their course towards an enemy ship and destruction.

Strategic Position. "Every naval power is fully alive to the value of using radio in this manner," Hooper continued, "and it is only common sense to assume that one of the very first places a Communist, Nazi or Fascist organization will fill with a spy is the radio room of a merchant ship. And as these radio-men are of above average intelligence and imagination, they will do their jobs well. It is hard to detect them."

"One of the most effective steps towards weeding them out will be to eliminate any operator who belongs to a subversive organization."

"True, codes and ciphers are used, but unless they are in the hands of experts and carefully guarded, they are not sufficient safeguard."

"It is extremely difficult for a merchant shipmaster to guard such codes and ciphers. He usually has a safe which an expert spy can easily open when the cabin is not occupied, and he often does not have the training to take the proper precautions. We actually furnished code books to merchant ships several years ago, and several were stolen within six months."

Precautions Urged. "All that is necessary is for the shipmaster operators, the masters, the Navy, the FBI, the FCC and loyal operators to keep watch and report any suspicious operators. They are not a large percentage of the total number, and sooner or later will give some evidence of their dislike for our form of government."

"Their names should be sent to the FBI and investigated. If the investigation shows that the man is not loyal at heart, his name should be reported by the FBI to the FCC and the latter should give him a hearing. But if reasonable doubt of his loyalty still exists, he should not be allowed to retain his license."

Roberts Again To Head State Milk Producers

Columbus Roberts, former commissioner of agriculture, was yesterday re-elected president of the Georgia Milk Producers' Confederation at its 12th annual meeting, which followed a barbecue for the members and employees at the headquarters, 661 Whitehall street. The retail stores of the confederation in Atlanta were closed from 12 to 2 o'clock so that the employees might participate. All other officers of the confederation were retained. Guests were Mayor Roy LeCraw and R. W. Hart, chief of the Bureau of Milk Sanitation of Atlanta.

Methodist Conference Set Here November 19

The North Georgia Conference of the United Methodist church will be held in Atlanta on November 19, it was announced yesterday by Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of the Atlanta area. Site for the South Georgia Conference on November 5 will be selected later, it was learned from Bishop J. L. Decell, of Nashville, secretary of the College of Bishops for the southeastern jurisdiction.

after a cold then what

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. Sound advice.

You know how weak you feel after a cold. Colds play havoc in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

So reason sensibly and take the choice of millions by immediately starting on a course of S.S.S. Tonic—taken three times a day immediately before meals. In the absence of a focal infection or organic disease, you should note improvement in the way you feel and look within the first 10 days. The confidence of millions over many years is the best testimonial of this product.

An experience with S.S.S. Tonic will cause you to say to your friends, S.S.S. made me "feel and look like myself again."

Nazi Warcraft In 'U.S. Waters,' Says Churchill

world of free peoples in which Christian virtues and moral values are not spurned as decadent and outmoded—a world where honest work is recognized."

Churchill's speech and Winant's response set the tone of most of the day's war news. Picking up not the fresh story of Nazi naval operations, but earlier information to the effect that the British had warned the United States of the suspected presence of a submarine assigned to attack war-supply ships in the western Atlantic, Berlin answered: "American war inciters!"

"We are not so naive," said authorized Germans, "as to attack the United States with a U-boat." The facts of the warning themselves remained in some dispute, incidentally. Informal sources in London denied that Lord Halifax, the British ambassador to Washington, had delivered such information. Nevertheless, Acting Secretary of State Welles said he had been told by the viscount that the British had received reports of a German submarine off the north Atlantic coast.

The Germans, no less than the British, stressed, however, the bigger and present war in the Atlantic rather than that apparently developing in the southeast. They gave new reports of destruction of British shipping, announcing that a U-boat had sent to the bottom five armed merchantmen aggregating 35,300 tons and that German speedboats had destroyed 10,000 tons of British merchant ships off the English east coast.

The British issued new figures putting British and Allied shipping losses at 98,232 tons for the week ended March 9 and 141,314 tons for the previous week. Churchill himself offered some offsetting "delectable tidings," however—the "certain destruction" of three Nazi submarines at one time.

The news from the African and Albanian theaters was limited. In Cairo the British Middle-Eastern command announced that violent Italian counterattacks against important British mountain points about strategic Cheren, in Italian Eritrea, had been thrown back and that the Fascists had paid high in dead, wounded and prisoners.

Italy was understood in various quarters in the Balkans to have insistently asked time for one more big push before any invasion of Greece by the German Balkan army.

Colonel Skelton Will Be Honored

Colonel J. A. Skelton, 95-year-old Confederate veteran, will be honored at a tea on his birthday today from 1 to 3 o'clock in the Soldiers Home on Confederate avenue.

Miss Mary Goudelock, superintendent of the home, said presidents of all United Daughters of the Confederacy chapters in Fulton county have been invited. Also to attend are Adjutant General Sion B. Hawkins, of the state military department; Captain J. J. Elliott, Major John E. Goo-win, and other members of the State Highway Patrol staff who have offices in the same building.

U-Boats Bagged 100 Ships Off U. S. During '18

New York City Blacked Out, Cape Cod Beach Shelled.

By The United Press.

During 1918, German submarines operating off New York and adjacent waters sunk or seriously damaged 100 ships including the U. S. S. San Diego, 13,680 tons, and the U. S. Minnesota, 17,650 tons, which ran into mine fields laid by the undersea craft, all of which returned safely to bases in Germany.

The U-boats began their operations off New York early in June and on June 4 the first survivors reached the barge office, New York, reporting they were U-boat victims. They were from the ship Hattie Dunn. About the same time the Edward H. Cole was attacked and sunk.

The police commissioner immediately ordered New York city blacked out and steel nets were strung across The Narrows of the city's harbor. Antiaircraft guns were manned as it was feared an aircraft carrier might be accompanying the U-boats. Plans were made to use the city's subways for shelters in event of aerial bombings.

Time Bombs Placed.

It developed that the first of the German submarines to reach waters off the city was the U-151, which sunk most of the ships attacked in leisurely fashion, sending crews aboard which placed time bombs. Crews of the American vessels were taken aboard the submarine and later released in open boats to be picked up by passing vessels.

The U-151 stayed off New York eight days, laying mine fields, sinking ships and cutting submarine cables. Survivors of some of the sunken ships were picked up by the steamers Santiago and San Saba.

About June 4, according to records, the S. S. Caroline was sunk off Atlantic City and her survivors rowed to shore in lifeboats.

New York continued blacked out at night and police forced all offices and homes to keep blinds tightly drawn. The police commissioner flew over the city to make sure the blackout was complete.

Destroyers and planes searched for the U-boats in vain.

Beaches were patrolled and a man was shot by an excited home guard.

Six separate raids were carried out by the German U-boat commanders during the summer and fall of 1918 and later German sailors told stories of coming ashore nights. One officer even claimed he visited New York at times and attended a theater. As the raids progressed, records showed, there soon was a list of 22 vessels lost totaling 52,000 tons.

Five separate mine fields were laid, accounting for some of the American and other ship losses.

Sub Takes Cargo.

One of the most daring of the U-boat attacks was on the S. S. Vindegen, en route to Europe with copper. The Germans stopped the ship, transferred her cargo

Special Treatment Favored For Physically Unfit Draftees

Gallup Survey Shows Public Approves Plan for Camps for Men Rejected for Defects That Can Be Cured.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 18.—One of the health problems raised by the draft—an important one in the eyes of health experts—is what should be done with draftees or volunteers who are rejected for physical ailments that could be cured.

Health experts argue that a worth-while program of public health can be dovetailed into the work of the draft. The Army, on the other hand, wants only men who are in topnotch physical condition.

To determine where public opinion stands in this controversy—and particularly what men of draft age themselves think—the Institute has completed a survey in which two questions were posed, one dealing with venereal disease treatment and the other with bad teeth.

The results follow: "The Army has been rejecting volunteers and draftees who have not been able to pass the physical examination because they have bad teeth. Do you think the Army should accept these men for duty and fix their teeth before they begin training?"

Yes 80%
No 13%
Don't know 7%

"Do you think men who have a venereal disease that can be cured should be accepted by the Army and placed in special camps until they are cured before starting training?"

Yes 65%
No 25%
Don't know 10%

The young men of draft age interviewed in the survey voted affirmatively on the two questions by a large majority. Seventy-seven per cent favor the proposal for dental work on bad teeth, and 66 per cent the idea of curing venereal diseases in special camps.

When asked by an Institute interviewer whether she thought the Army should accept men with bad teeth and fix their teeth, one woman in Ohio exclaimed:

"Bad teeth? But you don't fight with your teeth!"
Actually, according to Army experts, you do. The American Army is proud of its skill and prowess with hand grenades. Combat infantrymen must have good incisor teeth on both sides of the jaw because the common practice is to tear out the cap, or pin, of a hand grenade with one's teeth before hurling it at the enemy.

to their submarine during operations which lasted two days, and then sank the ship. The unloading operations were stopped a number of times while the submarine hurried to shell and sink other passing craft.

The U. S. San Diego went down off Fire Island when she ran into one of the mine fields laid by the U-boats.

A party of 35 survivors reached ships, including women and children, reached shore.

Fliers from the naval air station at near-by Chatham attempted to bomb the sub, but their missiles failed to explode. The Germans fired machineguns and small cannon at the planes while the U-boat cruised slowly southward on the surface.

Later the commander of the U-156 claimed in Germany that he sank 29 ships during his cruise. He also captured and armed the trawler Triumph and used her for a commerce raider which sank six vessels.

The commander of the U-140, which carried out a later raid, reported that he sank eight vessels, including the Standard Oil tanker O. B. Jennings, 10,289 tons, off Newport News.

The U-155 operated off Halifax during August, 1918, along with the U-177, which claimed she sank 19 ships in the waterways off Cape Cod. The U-152 reported she sank three ships, including the U. S. S. Ticonderoga. Only 24 of 237 men on the Ticonderoga escaped, according to newspaper records of the time. Two prisoners taken from the American ship were transported to Germany and kept there until after the war ended.

retired two years ago, Fox was a party to several pieces of litigation in the courts here about the same time.

Appointed by Attorney General Jackson to direct the inquiry were Hugh E. Fulton, executive assistant to Mathias F. Correa, United States attorney for the southern district of New York, and Assistant United States Attorney W. H. Gahagan, of New York.

An investigation of certain affairs of former Judge Davis was begun by a federal grand jury in New York in February, 1940.

Others named by Attorney General Jackson included Eva Fox, William's wife; their daughter, Belle; Morgan Kaufman, of Scranton, Pa., David's brother and bankruptcy referee for the middle district of Pennsylvania, and Murray Becker and Daniel Rosenblatt, New York lawyers.

Keep Tax Money In State-Talmadge

The depositing of unemployment compensation tax money with the federal government, in the opinion of Governor Eugene Talmadge, has "dangerous" possibilities.

Commending the general assembly for enactment of a measure providing that the tax money collected in Georgia be deposited in Georgia, the chief executive will say in his weekly newspaper, The Statesman, today "that it is dangerous to have too much money deposited in one place."

He asserts "this unemployment tax money, under the federal law, can be spent for other purposes, and an I. O. U. by the department spending it given to the labor crowd." He points out that Georgia has accumulated "a surplus of over $27,000,000" from the tax and adds "it is best for this surplus to be kept in the state that raises it."

The Business Opportunity column in the Want Ads of The Constitution furnishes a fertile field for small investment and profitable effort.

Left-Overs Can Be Savory Dishes

Party-like is this meat shortcake which can be made of any left-over meat. The bread foundation may be biscuit or cornbread squares.

By Sally Saver.

Left-overs can be made into many a prize recipe that the family will enjoy as much as the original if one stirs a little imagination and flavor into the dish. Pictured here is a meat shortcake evolved from an end of roast and a cup of vegetables. Green peas and pimiento are added for a dash of color and interest.

This can be served for a luncheon dish or a family meal. When you are making it, take care to cut the meat in large cubes to preserve its identity. The biscuit dough is made from a basic recipe for baking powder biscuits and can be rolled one-fourth of an inch thick and baked in one large sheet or rolled thicker, and when baked split and served in two layers.

Meat Shortcake Farm Style.
 2 cups cubed cooked veal.
 1 cup cooked peas.
 2 tablespoons butter.
 2 tablespoons flour.
 1 cup milk.
 4 slices crisp bacon.
 1/2 teaspoon paprika.
 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Biscuit dough.
 Combine butter and flour and add milk to make a cream sauce. Add the veal, peas and seasoning. Roll the biscuit dough and bake in two layers. Place one layer of biscuit on a platter and pour the meat mixture over. Top with the other layer of biscuit, and garnish the top with bacon, paprika, butter squares and a tablespoon of cooked peas. This recipe served on cornbread squares is also delicious.

These shortcakes served with a big bowl of salad made of greens, tomato wedges, carrot strips and grated onion tossed together with an oil and vinegar dressing completes a healthful and economical main course. Add hot coffee and a fruit dessert and the balanced meal is ready.

Questions about recipes, foods and service will be answered by Sally Saver. Call Walnut 6565 or write in care of The Constitution.

Joan Crawford, M-G-M star, makes a beauty ritual of her daily bath. To make it more luxurious and inviting, she uses a foaming, delightfully refreshing bubble bath. It is relaxing and soothing to the nerves.

Bubble Bath Good for Relaxation

Every day, more and more, we moderns are realizing the importance of fastidious care and daintiness of the body; the daily bath is the first step toward acquiring that vital freshness. There are many steps that women must follow to keep themselves alluring and attractive, but bathing is the first, and one of the most important steps to beauty and health.

It must never be forgotten that complete and thorough cleanliness of the whole body is the very basis of all beauty. Since this treatment is such a necessary and frequent one, we turn to the toilet goods counter for something that will make our bath more luxurious and inviting. And, a bubble bath is the trick.

We have found a bubble bath that is one of the most intriguing and feminine packages of sweet-smelling things we've ever tried. It gives you a fresh and buoyant sensation that sends you merrily on your way equal to even the unwelcome duties of the day. A bubble bath has other merits, though, besides making your bath a more luxurious one. The millions of little bubbles soften the water, leave your skin cleaner, and with a flower smoothness. Its effective ingredients are a beneficial for health's sake, too, for not only do they soothe the nerves, but help remove the acid, and poisons from the skin thrown off by the body.

There are six exquisite fragrances designed especially to please the feminine fancy and you'll revel in these new odors, for they leave your skin as fresh and fragrant as a June garden. A bubble bath makes a delightful gift for any woman, and with spring and Easter not far away, you can express your thoughts with a gift of refreshing and sparkling bubble bath. And, if you want to click on that "special date" for that "special one," dance into his heart by using this bath preparation that makes your skin breath romance.

You can buy this bubble bath in either crystal or liquid form, whichever you prefer. Call Winifred Ware today at The Constitution for more information as to prices and stores where you may purchase this product, or write to her in care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MY DAY: A Trip to the Cypress Gardens

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Monday.—On the way up yesterday, there was some doubt as to whether we would be able to fly out of Charleston, S. C., in the late afternoon. To my joy, I found the weather had cleared and we were able to carry out our plan of spending five hours in Charleston and then flying on to Washington.

Mrs. George Huntington met us at the airport and drove us first to the Cypress Gardens. I had never seen them before and found it hard to believe that those acres of white cypress trees growing out of the dark waters could possibly be alive. They certainly have an eerie look with the moss blowing on their bare branches.

While I thought it very beautiful, I could easily imagine "Murder in the Cypress Swamps," or the ghosts of past unhappy owners hiding away among those avenues of bare trees. The sun came out and we saw the reflection on the water, which is very beautiful. They have planted many spring bulbs along the shores, and touches of color meet your eyes on many sides, but somehow they did not lessen my feeling of "eerie-ness." I was rather relieved to find myself back at the landing greeted by a very cheerful colored guide, who evidently had no sense of the strangeness in these surroundings.

We drove from there to Middleton, which I think is one of the most beautifully laid out places I have ever seen. The natural setting is charming and, as you come up the steps through the gate which was once the main entrance to the house, you see before you the terraces. They were made 200 years ago by a hundred men who worked ten years.

At the foot of the terraces are two charming butterfly lakes and past them the banks of the river, lined with beautiful live oaks from which the Spanish moss waves gently. You can almost see the rice fields along the river which brought the early planters their wealth. To me, the enormous and graceful live oak trees are more marvelous even than the acres and acres of beautifully laid out gardens. We were a little late for the camellias, a little early for the azaleas, but I found this did not dim my pleasure in the trees.

The home of the present owners is the wing of the house which still stands. It is very beautiful and welcoming. Inside, fires burned and flowers everywhere made a perfect picture of finely proportioned rooms.

We had tea with Mrs. Huntington in her charming little house on King street, with a lovely garden of its own. We took the 6 o'clock plane and a smooth trip brought us to Washington a little before 9.

I was glad to find the President looking well and more rested than when I left, though he seemed to be surrounded by mountains of work. He explained that it all had to be done before he could get away for a short holiday himself. One needs such holidays to think, for these days so many problems crowd in on one from every side.

Bowling Is Fun, Good Exercise For Figure

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you didn't win any medals at athletics when you were growing up you may hesitate now to try anything new, but you owe it to yourself to take a fling at bowling.

Who knows—you might turn out to be another Floretta McCutcheon. Mrs. McCutcheon is so distinctly the motherly type that it is easy to imagine she may have had to be coaxed into her first sallies on the bowling alleys. At any rate, she was practically unknown outside the city limits of her home town when a national champion—a man, mind you—came away on an exhibition tour and she defeated him.

Whether or not you are championship caliber, you can count on becoming proficient enough to hold your own, and to have plenty of fun and get a normal amount of exercise pleasantly.

There are movie newcomers who never held a ball in their hands until whisked over to a bowling alley for "action shots" who became such enthusiasts that they placed their prowess at bowling ahead of qualifications for stellar roles. Less exuberant stars look upon bowling as their most reliable exercise and relaxation. And business girls hasten to the alleys at noon and after five. In the suburbs, bowling is rapidly supplanting bridge. It is good, but not too strenuous, exercise—and women approve its social aspect. Youth is served, too—physical education instructors in the colleges have voted bowling the sport most likely to succeed in being carried on after graduation, and that makes it more worthwhile.

The fact that bowling calls for rhythm and timing rather than brawn, and that the feminine eye is on the alert for detail, helps to account for the remarkable scores achieved by women bowlers.

According to the experts, here's the way you achieve a high score: Stand back from the line a few paces, hold the ball in the right hand and balance its weight with the left. Move forward in a quick, gliding step, and, as you do so, swing the ball up and back. As you side to a stop, bring the ball forward with the momentum of the entire body back of it—and aim for the number five pin! Until you feel competent to choose your own ball, it's better to use those which are lightweight.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "My mother was a very intelligent woman and I follow her example in many ways—but this article has convinced me that the method of punishment she used with us was wrong."

Mother: "I worship my mother's memory. She was the best mother that ever lived. I'm rearing my children in exactly the same way she reared us and then I know I can't make a mistake."

"The way mother did" should be constantly re-evaluated; should be kept as a pattern when of value and discarded when better methods are found.

Sudden Spells of Sneezing Accompany Allergic Sinusitis

By Dr. William Brady.

In the preceding lesson, as you will perhaps not remember, we cited good medical authorities for the statements (1) that many sufferers with bronchitis owe their condition to unrecognized or neglected sinusitis, (2) that a majority of patients with bronchitis who migrate to the warm, dry, sunny southwest owe their trouble mainly to allergy.

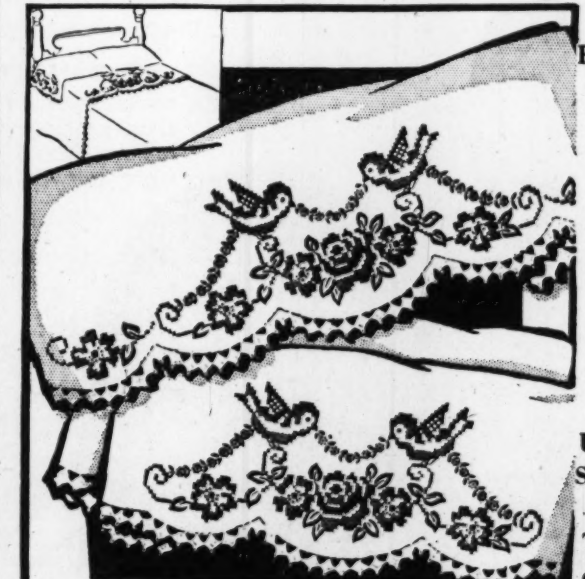

Allergy is the cause of a good many cases of chronic sinusitis, according to Dr. M. Coleman Harris, of the New York Polyclinic Medical School hospital. The points on which this view is based are, first, family history of one or another form of allergy—hay fever, asthma, hives, eczema, giant hives, Cooke, Rowe and other authorities believe allergic sensitivity is inherited. Second, in addition to the usual symptoms of sinusitis, such as post-nasal drip, morning cough, head pains, patients with allergic sinusitis frequently complain of sudden spells of sneezing and intermittent obstruction of now one, now the other or both nasal passages, profuse watery discharge occasionally becoming thick mucus.

Third, on examination the mucous membrane lining nasal passages appears a characteristic pale, grayish or bluish white color and edematous (watery swelling), and is extremely sensitive so that a touch induces a sneezing spell. Often not only enlargement of the turbinates but polyps are present, and Dr. Harris believes polyps are usually allergic in origin.

Fourth, microscopic examination of nasal discharge shows presence of more than the normal number of eosinophiles—corpuscles or cells which take a characteristic red stain. Many authorities regard an increased number of eosinophiles as more or less indicative of allergy.

Fifth, skin tests confirm the diagnosis of allergy and may determine precisely what substance or substances are responsible. Dr. Harris suggests that general instructions given sufferers from allergic sinusitis should be similar to instructions given asthmatic sufferers.

Star Sides With Marlene In Dietrich-Bruce Cabot Feud

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—A film career is to buy and live in a big estate.

Myrna Loy likes to choose her own hats for pictures. She picked a big brimmed hat with a long tassel for "Love Crazy."

"I can't see your face," the cameraman told her. Myrna cut off half the obstructing tassel. "And I can't see around you," said William Powell. So she snipped the rest of the tassel and some of the brim. "Now I don't like the hat," protested Myrna. The studio will pick the new one.

Marie Wilson's sweater in "Rookies on Parade" was the most daring of the decade. I am not surprised that the Hays office shrieked "No." The scenes with the sweater are to be shot again, with another sweater. . . . Jack Oakie shows pictures of his Afghan hounds on the set in hopes of finding prospective buyers. "My wife says I have to," says Jack, sadly.

Today's Charm Tip
 With all the comedy sketches written about the woman who goes in for affectations you wonder why any modern person would adopt them. But, unfortunately, some of them do.

Novel Frock for Two-to-Ten Girls

By Lillian Mae.

Fashion has no age limits—not when an entrancing style like Pattern 4720 is especially designed for little size two-to-ten girls! This Lillian Mae pantie-frock is gay and novel as can be, yet it's so simple to cut and sew! First, notice the gathering through the front skirt, just below that unexpected point of the waist—seam—so smart! Then, see the nicely curved side bodice sections. The sleeves may be wing-like flares in crisp puffs. For a dress-up style of sheer flowered fabric, sew on a pert bow and lace edging. To make a more everyday version of cotton or rayon, use buttons and a matching or contrasting collar. If your fabric is striped, you might let the center bodice section be on the crossgrain, for striking effect.

Pattern 4720 is available in children's sizes, 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 takes 2 yards 35-inch fabric and 1-4 yard contrast. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Fifteen cents and a postage stamp . . . and the world of fashion is yours! ## Women Are Needed For Defense Work

Red Cross headquarters is in urgent need of women to make bandages, for the Red Cross bandage quota for the national defense program must be completed by June. Atlanta women who are interested in doing their part and making the sacrifice necessary for their country's defense are requested to apply to Mrs. Floyd McRae Jr., or Mrs. John Appleby at Red Cross headquarters, West Peachtree and Sixth streets.

nounced its garden contest several weeks ago, Preacher decided that the beautiful gardens of the Jenkins residence on Tuxedo road were deserving of entry. Accordingly, he began to urge his master to enter them in the competition by contacting Betty Mathis, who is the garden editor of "The South's Standard Newspaper."

Preacher was forced to mention the contest several times before his employer became sufficiently aroused to act. But this morning's mail brought proof of his success. For Mr. Jenkins applied for entry blanks.

Despite his entering the contest which, incidentally, is inspiring a great deal of interest among garden lovers, the Atlantian does not know what part of his garden will be featured. You see, all Preacher will tell him is that he has "some surprises."

And, if rumors about Preacher's talent are correct, his "surprises" should be handsomely rewarded.

Mrs. Troutt Weds Brewster Manning

Mrs. Lelia J. Rany, of Ashburn, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Jewell Troutt, of Atlanta, to Brewster Manning, also of Atlanta, which took place on Friday, March 14. The ceremony was performed by Judge Paul S. Etheridge at his office at the courthouse.

The couple were unattended, and the bride was becomingly gowned in a spring model of black sheer worn with matching accessories. Completing her ensemble was a shoulder spray of orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning left for Helen, Ga., where they were guests at Greer's Mountain lodge. They will reside at 278 Twelfth street, N. E.

The bride, who is a lovely and attractive brunette, is a member of the circulation department of The Constitution.

Mr. Manning is also a member of The Constitution staff as makeup editor.

The announcement of the marriage of the young couple will be received with interest by their many friends here.

at their home in Gainesville. They were warned not to dress, for, as the hostess explained, it was to be one of those red-checked tablecloth affairs.

Accordingly, the Atlantians decided to surprise their hosts by dressing to suit the occasion. So attic trunks and cedar chests were raided, the result being six utterly ridiculous costumes. In fact, they not only surprised the Pops when they arrived, but the entire neighborhood, who viewed them with wide-eyed astonishment and open curiosity.

As soon as dinner was over, the festive guests brought forth snuff boxes and brushes and proceeded to "dip" in fine style, much to the horror of their husbands and hosts. Nothing daunted, however, they continued to enjoy their pastime throughout the evening. And, unless the husbands happen to read this column, they'll never know that snuff and cigars had been substituted for the original snuff contained in the boxes.

Mrs. Pope was as good as her word about the affair being a country dinner. Sure enough, the table was covered with a red-checked cloth, centered with a huge glass heaped with pickled beets and pickled eggs. The menu and table appointments accurately carried out her idea, even to an old-fashioned spoon holder and covered hinged dish.

Equally impressed with Mrs. Pope's ingenuity as were the guests was her colored maid, who remarked:

"The table sho' do look beautiful, Mrs. Pope, but I ain't seen one that looked like that for at least 20 years!"

Mrs. Curtis Dixon, chairman of Group No. 1, will serve as co-hostess.

Final plans for the March pilgrimage will also be discussed. This is the trip on which Atlanta high school seniors are taken for a one-day visit to the school in Rome. It will take place on March 22 and Mrs. Ralph Waggar is in charge.

Dr. Kellogg's appearance will make this meeting an outstanding one. All who have studied under her remember her as a keen student of European history with the wit and sincerity that mark a fascinating speaker. ## Miss Walter Feted As Guest of Aunt Among attractive young college belles spending the spring holidays in the city is Miss Katherine Walter, of New York City, who is being informally feted as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Reuben Arnold. The visitor is a popular freshman at the University of Georgia in Athens.

Today Miss Walter will be honored at the small informal luncheon at which her cousin, Mrs. Hugh Richardson Jr., will be hostess at her home on West Pace's Ferry road.

The luncheon table will be adorned with colorful spring flowers and the guests will include a small group of the younger contingent.

The visitor was central figure yesterday at the small luncheon given by her aunt, Mrs. Arnold, at her home on West Pace's Ferry road.

Following luncheon the guests who numbered a few close friends, were entertained at a theater party.

Hicks' 78 Wins Medal at Forest Hills

La. Purchase DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 18.—The Eagle 'way down yonder in New Orleans is apt to spread his editorial wings and scream to the high heavens again. For another couple of would-be Pelicans have got away to the Atlanta Crackers. Mr. Earl Mann has made some Louisiana purchases.

Harry Martinez, known as the Eagle, is sports editor of the States, and Harry's been keeping a close tab on the New Orleans and Louisiana boys signed by the Crackers in the last couple of years. The total is astounding. No other feeding ground of young players has been so profitable to the Crackers. It is getting to be that an Atlanta prospect on a Cracker roster is an oddity. And any time there are less than a dozen good New Orleans boys available, it's news.

In fact, it is news when a good New Orleans product is missed by Atlanta, as one might have been recently. Al Suberville, versatile Holy Cross athlete, signed with Beaumont. Maybe the Crackers didn't want him.

But at the same time the Crackers signed two New Orleans boys and assigned them to Waycross. At least the Crackers got two for one. The latest to be signed are Paul Burke and Cliff Perez, schoolboy stars last year.

More and more the Crackers are signing prospects young and bringing them along in their own system. Pete Thomassie, whom you've been reading so much about, is a product of the New Orleans sandlots. So's Connie Ryan. And then there's Rene Cortes, Ulysses Wattigny, Elwood Lawson, Joe Gautreaux, Elmer Flair, Pat Bevel, Emile Lochbaum, etc. T. J. (Bull) Bankston is a Louisiana product. Don't be surprised if the Crackers one day come up with an All-Louisiana nine. They could almost muster one now.

Change Artists The better baseball minds (or the one's easiest fooled) have come to the conclusion Johnny Rucker, of Crabbapple, at least will look like the greatest center fielder the New York Giants have ever had if he plays alongside the erstwhile catcher, Harry (The Horse) Danning.

I read somewhere the other day where one of the major league writers was commenting on the trend of the managers "to change players into something they wasn't." Or words to that effect.

Mainly the writer dealt with Joe McCarthy switching Joe Gordon from second to first and of Bill Terry making a left fielder out of Catcher Harry Danning.

And in connection with the Danning shift, this writer observed: "I never see a catcher which is back there for some years get the kinks outa them thighs and make a first-class outfielder in the major leagues. Oit does it, but he is 16, just up from the brush. What's the angle?"

In most cases, writers commenting on the Danning shift said Bill Terry merely was throwing up a smokescreen to make Giant fans forget the fact that the team is without a first-class shortstop.

Whatever is said about player shifts, however, there was one that won a pennant for Del Baker and Detroit. That was the shift which sent Hank Greenberg from first base to the outfield, making room for Rudy York at first base.

York definitely wasn't a catcher or outfielder, but he could play first base. So Baker made an outfielder out of Greenberg and was able to take advantage of the hitting of both players.

Maybe So Nothing ever will be done about it, chances are, but Jimmy Powers, New York Daily News, may have something there when he insists major league teams should do away with spring exhibition games.

Powers lists not only the player hazards involved, but points out that "fans can become surfeited with box seats. Build up a little suspense and hunger, says we."

Among the players victimized by exhibition games is Hugh Casey. He was beamed in an exhibition during the regular season last year. "The game didn't mean a thing to Brooklyn," Powers points out, "and it probably cost the Dodgers the pennant, because the club was only a game or two from the top at the time."

Another good point brought out by Powers is synthetic home runs in hat-box parks.

We might now include the Cracker exhibitions. Francis field at St. Augustine is no hat-box park, nor is the city island field here at Daytona Beach.

But it is no trick for right-handed hitters to sock home runs. It's 330 feet from home plate to left in Francis field and just about the same distance from home plate to the river here.

In fact, Tommy O'Brien hit one in the river here. Yet Tommy couldn't buy one in left field at Ponce de Leon park, Atlanta.

The Crackers, you may rest assured, are going to keep on playing exhibitions. So the only thing to do is shorten left field at home. A 330-foot homer is a pretty hefty blow, after all.

Nassau Match Indicates Jones Will Be Big Threat in Masters

MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—(P)—There's many an "if" twist the wish and the cup, but judging from Bobby Jones' command performance for the Duke of Windsor the former ruler of world golf should be a distinct threat in the masters' tournament April 3-6 at Augusta, Ga.

A decade after his retirement from active championship competition and at the ripe age of 39 (yesterday was his birthday), Jones is hitting the ball something like he did when he was capturing his titles.

"If" number one is whether he can sharpen his putting touch to the modern keen edge. "If" number two is whether he can regain a degree of the concentration that made him virtually unbeatable.

With little semblance of that concentration Jones played 34 holes in par while he and Tommy Armour were trimming Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen in the "match of champions" at Nassau. Altogether, he scored five birdies, the same number of bogeys

Louis To Meet Big Abe Simon On Friday Night

Jimmy Johnston's Fiasco in Detroit Expected To Draw 15,000.

DETROIT, March 18.—(P)—Under his iron hat, Jimmy Johnston is strictly a Broadway guy, but you can't blame him for having a soft spot in his heart for Detroit ever since he "discovered" this industrial bee-hive a couple of years ago.

For, while Jimmy's iron hat is still as much a Broadway landmark as the hot dog stands, his fistie fortunes in New York of recent years have been, at best, only so-so. Out here, on the other hand, James Joy has found a new "oyster," first with Bob Pastor and now with large Abraham Simon, who is bravely training to get hit on the chin by Joe Louis in the Olympia Friday night.

A year ago last September, Jimmy put Pastor in with the Brown Bomber at Briggs stadium here in a match that couldn't have drawn a picture in New York. That fight attracted a neat, if not gaudy, gate of some $340,000.

Friday, Louis led "Our Abe," as Jimmy would have you know the New York giant, should make it another nice pay-day for J. J. Johnston & Co. in the Bomber's 15th defense of the world heavyweight title. Local estimates are that some 15,000 of the faithful will pay about $50,000 to see Abe put to sleep in about four of the scheduled 20 rounds.

Both the Pastor and Simon box scores should credit Roscoe Toles, the long-armed local Negro heavyweight, with an assist. Both fighters whipped Roscoe as the final stepping stone to the title shot.

No one except "Our Abe" figures there's any kind of a chance for the crown to be knocked off the Bomber's black locks in this trip to the post. However, Abraham, who has had to do most of the talking up to now, because Jimmy's been busy elsewhere, thinks all this stuff about sending him to the execution chamber is "a lot of pish-tosh." That wasn't exactly what Louis' previous heavier rivals, Primo Carnera and Tony Galento, called Joe's pitches.

Pastor To Battle Louis on April 16.

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(P)—Promoter Tom Gallery moved quickly today to capitalize on last night's spectacular triumph by heavyweight Bob Pastor over Young Turkey Thompson, of Los Angeles.

Gallery said he had signed the New Yorker to meet Champion Joe Louis in a title match here April 16, contingent upon two formalities, and that Thompson, who had Pastor on the floor six times in the first round last night, would meet Tony Galento on April 30.

The formalities are approval by the California athletic commission and a Louis victory Friday night over Abe Simon in Detroit.

Bomber Will Fight Musto at St. Louis.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(UP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will wind up his current "fight-a-month" program with a 15-round title bout against Tony Musto in the St. Louis auditorium April 7, it was announced today.

Gabe Genovesi, Musto's manager, also announced that Promoter Tom Packs would stage the fight, which is apparently a replacement for the canceled Arturo Godoy-Louis match, scheduled for Los Angeles.

Musto, from Blue Island, Ill., is ruggedly built, weighs 195 pounds and—evidence to have been knocked off his feet in 43 bouts.

Lookout Catcher.

Lost for a Month

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 18.—(P)—Rufe Hooks, catcher for the Chattanooga Lookouts, was lost to the club today for at least four weeks when he fractured a small bone in his leg in a workout. Hooks suffered the injury when his spike hung in a bag. He will return home Friday. President Joe Engel said he will contact other clubs in search for a veteran catcher who can fill in until Hooks returns.

8 Atlanta Anglers Join Casting Club

Eight more Atlanta fishermen today had been added to the rolls of the Atlanta Fly and Bait Casting Club. The new members were admitted to the organization Monday night at a buffet supper meeting which attracted a large number of anglers.

Members of the Atlanta Field Trial Club were guests of the casting group, which is sponsoring the work of the Georgia Wildlife Federation. The bird dog men voted to join the anglers in support of the federation.

The following anglers joined the club and federation: R. E. Callahan, Clifford W. Blissett, Lovejoy Harwell, E. G. Field, Ben Elliott, J. H. Geffrey, H. F. Edge and W. W. McCrea.

Art Gillham presided at the meeting in the absence of M. E. Harkins, who has been confined to bed for the past ten days, unable to see visitors.

Kirby Has 82 And Suggs 84 In Qualifying

First Round Set Today; Helen Sigel Defends in Fast Field.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.

FOREST HILLS, AUGUSTA, Ga., March 18.—It was a beautiful day here at Forest Hills. All of the wind that was blowing yesterday had subsided. The qualifying was led by Elizabeth Jean and, so, it seems to be a habit for Elizabeth to walk off with the medal honors. The same thing happened at Belle Air last week, except that she took one more stroke and had a 79.

Anyway, Elizabeth got up out of the bed where she has been for the last two days with a very bad throat and evidently had no trouble in getting in the groove again. She was out in 40 and had a 38 on the back nine with a six on the last hole.

Coming in second was Jean Bauer with a fine 80. She was playing very well and was only off the fairway one time, and that was on the 17th hole, when she hooked her drive. I was in the same threesome as Jean and, so, had a good chance to see how the 80 was made. She played much better golf on the back nine, even though she had 40 on both sides. However the first 40 was what I call a scrambling round. If it hadn't been for this she would have tied Hicks, I believe.

TIED FOR THIRD.

Helen Dettweiler and I tied for third place with 82's. My round was one of those not so good and yet not so bad rounds. I never like that kind. I'm not really hitting the ball badly, but I can't seem to score.

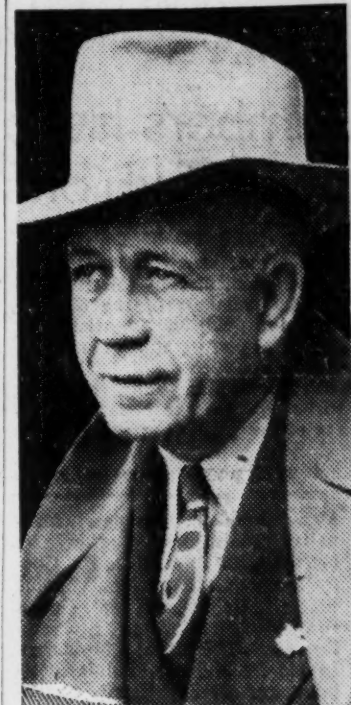

I took 40 shots on the front side and 42 coming in. Some trouble seemed to pop up on two or three holes on the back side which rather ruined by chances of a much lower score.

Louise Suggs finished with 84. Her game didn't come to her until the back nine, for she used 44 strokes on the front side and an even 40 on the other. It just took Louise a while to get warmed up, I guess. From what I have seen of her game here she is hitting the ball all right.

On the first hole today I made an awful drive. In fact, I hit a tree not too far off the tee.

CORDELL HULL VISITOR.

What I am leading up to is that we had some very distinguished people watching us get started—none other than Cordell Hull and his secretary. Mr. Hull has been down for a few days just taking things easy. I think he gets in

JACK KEARNS To Promote Big Card Here.

Boxing Show Here in April Features Best

Top Heavyweights Bill; Brown May Box Miami Conqueror.

By MELVIN PAZOL.

Jack Kearns, former manager of ex-World's Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey, arrived in town yesterday to complete details for the charity boxing show to be sponsored by the J. W. V. Post 112, and announced that the program would be able to stand on its own feet, without the charity angle build-up, since he has lined up some of the country's outstanding heavyweights to box here. The date of the match has been tentatively set as April 9 or 10.

Kearns, who recently promoted a similar charity program in Miami, will leave today for Tampa, Fla., where he has another card scheduled Tuesday night. The match here had been planned for March 28, but since Ben Brown will be fighting Al Hostak on the west coast about that time, Kearns decided to move the program back, and plans to put Brown on against Eddie Pierce, the same boxer who hammered Ben so unmercifully at Miami.

Pierce is willing to face Brown again, and if Ben's itinerary can

Cortes and Bankston Face Lookouts in Third Game of Series

Cracker Guns Are Muffled By Lochbaum

Burge Crashes Home Run for Only Damaging Hit Off Emil.

By JOHNNY BRADBEARY, Assistant Sports Editor.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 18.—Rene Cortes, T. J. Bankston and possibly Earl McGowan, three youthful fast-ball pitchers, will be on the mound for the Crackers tomorrow when they meet the Chattanooga Lookouts in the third exhibition game of the season between the two clubs at Daytona Beach.

Manager Paul Richards said after today's workout here he would start Cortes and he and Bankston would hurl the complete game unless help is needed, in which case he plans to use McGowan, a left-hander.

Richards will use the Cracker regulars almost all the game. Only two or three substitutions outside of pitchers will be made, in strict contrast to Sunday's battle in which 18 Crackers saw action.

Big Lester Burge clouted one of Emil Lochbaum's offerings over the 330-foot right-field fence in the eighth inning to give the regulars a 4-3 victory over the Bluebirds in today's eight-inning intracamp game.

However, it was only the third hit in three complete innings of pitching for both sides off Lochbaum who turned in the day's best job. He allowed a single to Pat Petrino and a double to Connie Ryan, but otherwise turned in a great job in setting both teams down, in the six innings he pitched.

POINDEXTER RAPPED.

Jinx PoinDEXTER and Ed Heuser were other pitchers to see action and all runs, except Burge's homer, came at the expense of PoinDEXTER, who wasn't bearing down very much because of a cold wind whipping across the diamond.

He allowed seven hits and six runs in his five innings on the hill. Charlie Glock, Sal Ferrara and Tom Robinson hit doubles while Glock, John Kelly, Emil Mailho and Russ Bergmann got singles.

Heuser allowed four hits and no runs in his five innings on the mound. Tommy O'Brien, Kelly and Robinson solved his batting delivery for singles, while Jack Barnes lashed out a long double to the left-center fence. However, big Ed had pretty good control of the situation all the time and was never in serious trouble.

He was taking it easy, at his sweeping curveball had the rookies in camp ready to eat their hats with or without salt. Kelly's hit was a Texas-leaguer, which Ryan misjudged.

Lochbaum said after the game his arm felt great. "I could have gone nine innings without any trouble," he remarked.

RUBBER GAME. Tomorrow's game will be the third of the season against the Lookouts. The series now stands at one game all, but the Crackers stand a good chance of going one up as Bankston was complete master of Kiki Cuyler's boys the first time he faced them last Saturday.

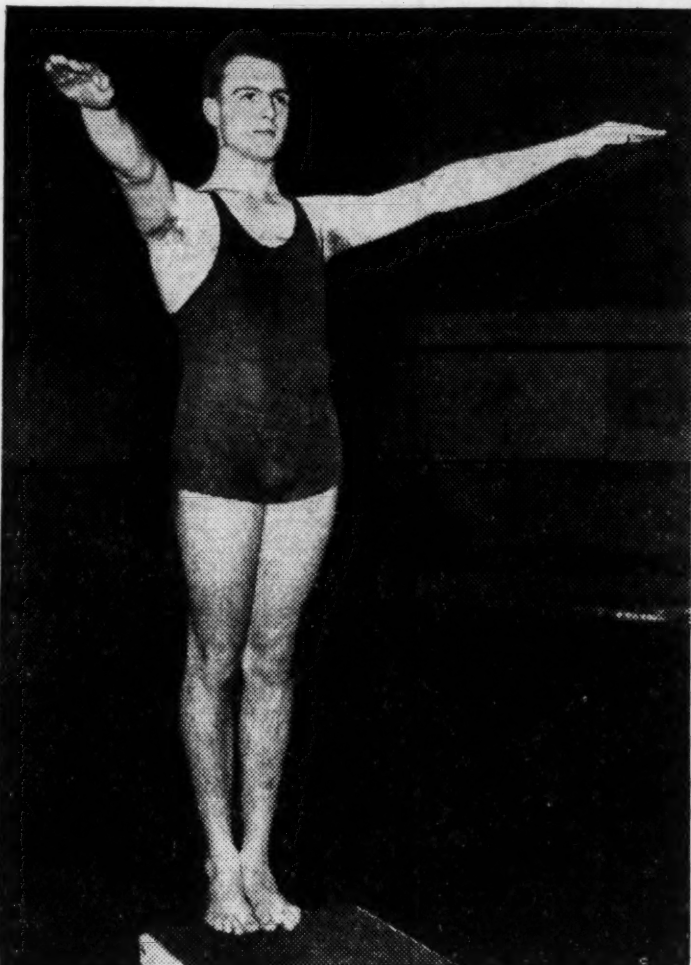

Larry Smith, rookie catcher, left tonight for Atlanta, where a specialist will take a look at his ailing throwing arm.

Pat Petrino, giving it the old college try, suffered a cut hand today when he crashed into a fence trying to catch a foul pop in batting drills.

"I'm sure glad I'm on their side," Jinx PoinDEXTER remarked during batting practice today as Les Burge and Junior Marshall slugged several balls out of the park.

"I'd hate to have one of their line drives come back at me in that box."

Little Pete Thomassie, rookie outfielder, has missed the last two Bluebird-Regular games because of having a tooth pulled yesterday.

FANCY DIVER—George Austin, an Atlanta boy who is a junior at Auburn, and one of the best fancy divers in the Southeastern Conference, will perform here this weekend in the S. E. C. tank meet at the Georgia Tech pool. George has a fine record in dual meets this season.

Cooper, Mangrum Tie At Pinehurst With 68's

By WALTER LOGAN.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 18.—(UP)—Harry Cooper, of Chicago, playing with a borrowed driver on the windswept No. 2 course at Pinehurst, today shot a four-under-par 68 and tied with Lloyd Mangrum, of Oak Park, Ill., for the first-round lead in the 39th annual North-South golf championship.

Cooper had trouble hitting his wood shots in pre-tournament practice. He borrowed a driver from Horton Smith, Oak Park. Lighthouse Harry didn't do much better with that wood and picked up another old one in the locker he shared with Smith. This one did the trick.

High winds hampered some of the players, but 24 shot par or better. It was so cold this morning that that play was postponed until the greens thawed. The professionals bunched up in any weird combination of sweaters and jackets they could find in their resort wardrobes. Jug McSpaden wore pajamas under his golfing togs.

Tied at 69 were Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va.; Professional Golfers' Association Champion Byron Nelson; National Open Champion Lawson Little, and Al Brosch, of Farmingdale, N. Y.

At 70 were Clayton Heafner and Jimmy Thomson. Benny Hogan, North-South defending champion, who shot a 66 on the opening round in 1940, was one under par today. His 71 tied with Craig Wood, Bud Williamson, Mike Turnesa and Felix Serafin.

Low amateurs were Bill Cozart, of Durham, N. C., and George Dunlap, Pinehurst, who shot par 72, as did nine pros. National Amateur Champion Dick Chapman withdrew and returned to New York.

Jim Ferrier, the Australian Open champion, made his pro debut by shooting a 76.

POINTER WINS. ORANGE, Va., March 18.—(P)—Hurry Bob, a pointer owned by I. H. Velotte, of Camp Hill, Pa., captured the all-age derby of the Virginia Amateur Field Trial Association's spring meeting today with an A-1 performance in cold and windy weather.

day. However, he is expected to be ready to go tomorrow.

Glock, Bates, Mailho and Gerlach engaged in a red-hot bowling match last night at the alleys adjoining the hotel.

Mailho and Gerlach teamed up against Bates and Glock. Incidentally, the veteran Gerlach has as much life as the youngest rookie in camp. He is a real peeper box at short and teams with Ryan to give the Crackers a great double play combination.

Ott, who has divided his time during the past four years between the outfield and third base, will open the season at that position, according to Terry.

be arranged, home town fans will be given a chance to see Ben redeem himself, or take another beating. With the stories of Ben's training misconduct circulating around town, certainly as many fans will be on hand to see the Atlantan pummeled as will be there rooting for him.

Kearns listed the following boxers on the tentative program: Melio Bettina, who kayoed Buddy Knox; Dave Walsh, of Jersey City, N. J.; Red Burman, Jack Dempsey's find; Jimmy Lunsford, of Blytheville, Ark.; Tommy Gomez, Pat Comiskey and Jack Marshall.

In addition, Jack Dempsey will probably referee some of the matches, and Benny Leonard, featherweight champion, will be featured in an exhibition.

Milton Waronker, commander of the local J. W. V. post, is co-promoter of the program, which will be held at the city auditorium. Waronker stated that the veterans' organization will turn its entire share of the proceeds over to Allied war funds.

Win Passes to Cracker Games!

Believing that left field at Ponce de Leon park is unfair to right-handed batters—the distance from home plate to the corner is 365 feet—The Constitution is asking baseball fans to express an opinion.

Other Southern League parks uniformly are shorter in left field. Thus a right-handed batter has more opportunity to hit home runs. The home run has been taken out of left field at Ponce de Leon park.

If, as a baseball fan, you're interested in seeing the field shortened, fill out this coupon and mail to the Baseball Editor, The Constitution sports department, Atlanta, Ga.

Send in your ballot now. If enough fans are interested the Atlanta Baseball Club might shorten the field before the season opens.

And don't forget. There'll be a season pass for the best reason, and other single game passes for other fans. The balloting officially ends Saturday night, March 22, at midnight.

some golf here now and then. That makes a fine excuse for my drive on that particular hole, anyway. I don't know just what happened on the rest of the holes. There were three 93's who played off for the first division and one of them got in. The scores were much higher than usual. Helen Siegel the defending champion here took an 87 today.

The parings don't look any too good. Play Mrs. Schulerberg tomorrow and am in the same bracket as Hicks and Siegel, which spells trouble. In the lower section is Bauer, Cothran, Dettweiler and Suggs to mention a few. Suggs takes on Dorothy Gardner for her first opponent and this isn't too good. Louise has gotten hold of a rather hard one for the first round.

This is undoubtedly the best field of golfers that this tournament has had.

Peaches May Do Training in Florida

MACON, Ga., March 18.—(P)—Booming national defense activities may boom the Macon Peaches of the South Atlantic Baseball League right out of Macon for their spring training.

Usually the Peaches do their pre-season work here, but President Roy Williams is casting an eye southward to Florida because of a shortage of housing facilities. The Peaches are due to report March 28 for training. The Montreal and Durham clubs are now in spring training here.

THE TEAM TO BEAT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—The team to beat in the American League is Roger Peckinpaugh's Cleveland Indians. You can take out your notebook and write that down before the raw winds of March blow in the rains of April.

Cleveland has a ball club that should have won the pennant by five to ten games last season, and it has a better ball club ready for 1941 than it had through 1940.

Cleveland has a new leader in Peckinpaugh who has already scattered oil over the troubled waters—and Cleveland has Bob Feller.

That isn't all. Cleveland has the best shortstop and second base act in either league with Boudreau and Mack—and that still isn't all. I spent the day with Peck, an old friend, who made a futile attempt to cover up his enthusiasm and not crawl too far to the end of an uncertain limb.

"What about those Yankees?" he asked me. "They were supposed to be terrible last season, far below their normal form, and yet they finished only two games away. Everyone says they are better this year. Why shouldn't they be the team to beat?"

"Maybe there are few teams to beat," we suggested. "And Cleveland is certainly one of them."

Peck and the Indians.

Peckinpaugh, under a lusty grilling, finally broke down and confessed all.

"I'll admit that we should have a better ball club, physically and mentally, than we had last year. Naturally, the bunch resented the razzing they took last year and now they are out to win. I've never seen a squad hustling any harder or showing any better spirit."

"If I'd let him, Bob Feller would work all day. So would most of the others. And we are pretty well fixed with good ball players. We have good catching, headed by Rollis Hemsley—a better pitching staff, headed by Bob Feller, Mel Harder and others, not overlooking Jim Bagby. I wouldn't trade our infield for any other in baseball with Boudreau and Mack at short and second, and there are no headaches in our outfield. We are also well planted with good reserves."

"I know," Peck added, "that Cleveland was always going to win the pennant, ever since you traveled with Larry Lajoie, Bill Bradley, Addie Joss and others around 1906. But it wasn't until 1920 that the Indians copped a flag, and they haven't taken one since. Whether happens we won't get a much better chance than we have this season."

Not Quite So Far.

"Several experts, old-timers, have told me that Cleveland should win by at least ten games," I said to Peck.

"That doesn't make any sense," the Cleveland leader said. "I'm still asking you—what about those Yankees?"

"They'll be tough to take," I said. "They have a better infield than last season and a strong outfield in DiMaggio, Keller, Selkirk, Henrich and Holmes. Bill Dickey is sure to have a better year. The pitching will at least be just as good."

"And yet they finished only two games away last fall," Peck cut in. "Who is going to beat those Yankees by 10 games?"

"Then you figure this a two-club race," I asked.

"No, I don't," Peck said. "I'll be honest and tell you that Cleveland and New York look to be the two strongest clubs. But suppose Joe Cronin and the Red Sox come up with better pitching? This might happen. They have everything else. And don't figure that Detroit is going into any tailspin with the pitching they can call on."

Baseball Leagues Complete Rosters

The Walthour City League and Walco Leagues, both members of the Walthour Amateur Baseball Association, were closed out at Monday night's final business meeting.

Dick Dodgen, well-known local diamond luminary was elected president of the Walthour City League and Bob Blackwell was named vice president. This league is composed of the following teams: Grove Park, Johnson Freight Lines, Blackwell & Davis, Sylvan Hills, Inman Park and Shelby Lowe's Whitaker Oil nine. The league voted to open its schedule April 6.

The Walco League, which will be composed of Vinings, Clarkston, Atlantic States, Cedar Grove, Red Oak and Hapeville, named Doug Fowler as its president at Monday's meeting. Jesse Wise was elected vice president.

The Transportation League has already completed its roster and is scheduled to open play April 6.

Lead Is Taken By Mrs. Bright In AWGA Meet

In spite of the cold which sent most scores soaring, Mrs. Morton Bright shot an 86 yesterday at Capital City to maintain her lead in the three-day tournament of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association.

While others in the competition fought to break 100 and failed, Mrs. Bright played beautiful and steady golf to keep the lead which she took on the first day of the meet at East Lake Monday.

The tournament will be concluded today with an 18-hole round, and all A. W. G. A. golfers are cordially invited to take part. Mrs. W. S. Eakin will be in charge.

Mrs. Page Holds 14-Stroke Lead

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., March 18.—(P)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Chapel Hill, the former National champion, fired a sparkling 77 today on the second 18-hole round of the Mid-South Women's golf tournament to go with her 81 of yesterday for 158 and a 14-stroke lead over her nearest opponent, Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, Ohio.

Miss Fordyce, a links veteran, could do no better than 87, which, with her 85 yesterday, gave her 172 and second place.

Pretty Marcia Bassett, of Buffalo, N. Y., consistently scored brilliant shots on the windswept Country Club course and finished in third place with 174.

SHE LOVED A SPY

Joan Again Encounters Paul Sherman; Overhears Alarming Conversation of Karl's

By Sylvia Taylor

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS: Joan Leland is both dazed and angry when Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, gives her two weeks' salary and, refusing an explanation, tells her that her services as his secretary are no longer required. She knows her work has been satisfactory and she is fuming when she goes to the studio apartment she shares with her older sister Sybil, who, although only 27, has been divorced for six years. Before Joan can tell her sister her bad news, Sybil says she is losing her job because the beauty shop where she works is closing. In the Help Wanted column of the evening paper Joan sees an ad for a secretary. The North Beach address is that of a new night club, about to open. Karl Miller, a handsome, powerfully built man, engages her, although she has no references because she was so angry she forgot to ask Mulford. Miller says he, too, was in the importing business until the war closed him up. Her salary will be $50 a week because of the unusual hours, he says, and he pays her two weeks in advance. There is a trace of acceptance in his speech but Joan finds him fascinating, a fact that Sybil divines. There must be something shady about Miller's night club, Sybil declares, when she hears of the advance pay. Joan finds Miller interesting and she is glad when he asks her to go dancing with him the night before his club is to open. He says he is new in the night club business and needs some pointers. When she gets home at 2 a. m. Sybil orders Joan to quit her job with Miller at once.

INSTALLMENT VI

If he was Karl's partner, why had she not seen him before? Only once to her knowledge had he been in Karl's office. For that matter, Paul Sherman certainly had not been around much either. Everyone behaved so peculiarly at the Club Elite—as if there were some mystery behind it. Karl was the only person who seemed entirely calm and capable. Working at a night club was vastly different from working at M. Mulford's importing shop where nothing ever happened from one monotonous month to the next.

Joan looked at Karl, whose eyes were as sphinxlike as the vast ocean that rolled outside the broad windows. A little thrill swept over her that this man was here. But was he? For one small moment the day before she had been in his arms, but during the rest of the brief time she had known him he seemed a thousand miles away. Sybil had said that Joan did not love him; that it was merely fascination. But it must be love that brought such heartache in its wake. At his slightest smile, her spirits zoomed. If he ignored her, she was desolate. When she could not see him, life seemed futile. When she was with him, the ordinary troubles of everyday life lost all importance. If this was not love, what was it?

Joan's reverie was broken by the head waiter, who was speaking to Karl. "You're wanted on the telephone, Mr. Miller."

When he had gone, Eric Strom smiled at her and leaned across the table.

"You are very beautiful, Miss Leland. But I suppose Karl has told you that." His accent was much heavier than Karl's, and Joan found it difficult to understand. "A woman with green eyes is very rare. Did you know that?"

Joan forced a smile to her lips. "I don't believe we've met before, have we?"

He shrugged. "I am Karl's silent partner. He doesn't need me to run the club. Others can do that. By the way, Miss Leland, I would like to see you again sometime. Just the two of us."

Her piquant face was white beneath the sophisticated veil. She was afraid of this man. "I'm afraid it is impossible," she replied sharply.

But Eric Strom was not displeased. "Have a cigarette, Miss Leland? You may find that sometime we have no choice in such matters."

Joan stared at him uncertainly. What did he mean by that? Did everyone at the Club Elite talk in riddles? First Paul's inexplicable behavior, now Eric Strom's! What would Karl think if he knew that his partner and his manager had both tried to make a date with his secretary? Paul was young. Perhaps high spirits had prompted his impudence. But Eric Strom was another matter, and Joan decided to tell Karl about it the moment they were alone.

She had no chance, however, for when Karl returned to the table he said briefly, "Something has come up. We'll have to go back to the office."

The two men exchanged glances, then looked at Joan. "Do you mind?" Karl inquired with his quick smile. "I'd like to get a couple of letters out tonight. I know it isn't in the bargain for you to work on Sunday."

She knew that she was powerless to refuse him. She would gladly have typed a dozen letters in order to be near him.

Karl paid the check and the three of them left. As they drove back to North Beach, sheets of rain beat upon the car. The Club Elite was closed on Sundays and Karl unlocked the door with his own key. Joan was surprised to see a streak of light streaming from the door of his private office.

Hurrying along the corridor, she reached it first and found herself face to face with Paul Sherman.

He grinned at her. "A manager never really has a day off."

Karl seemed to find nothing strange in his presence at the club. "You don't happen to have some extra time, do you, Miss Leland?" Paul inquired. "I could use some help."

Before she could answer, Karl Miller said quickly, "She has enough to do, Paul, and now if you don't mind..." He left his sentence unfinished.

"Surely," Paul grinned and sauntered to the door. "See you tomorrow," he called back but his eyes were on Joan and she knew that he was thinking of the dinner date he had proposed.

She shook her head as she looked at him over her typewriter but Paul ignored it.

Karl removed his overcoat and sat down at his desk. Eric Strom mixed himself a drink.

"Take a letter," Karl said, reading from a sheet of yellow paper, "to A. H. Gomez, Mazatlan, Mexico. Dear Sir: I am happy to report that the situation you mentioned has been cleared up satisfactorily. The club will be open from 8 to 2 and shows every sign of being successful."

Joan looked at him curiously. This did not sound like an important business letter to her. Certainly not so important that it couldn't wait until morning.

Seeing her glance, Karl said, "I'm afraid you're too tired. I shouldn't have asked you to work tonight."

"It's all right," she hastened to assure him. "I don't mind, really." But Karl Miller had changed his mind. "I will call a taxi and send you home."

"But I'm not tired, Karl!"

He was dialing a number and Joan knew it was useless to argue with him. He went to the door of the club with her, pressing her hand as he said, "I'm sorry it had to turn out this way tonight. We'll arrange something else soon..."

Joan shivered in the damp night air as she waited for the taxi. A small coupe stopped suddenly before her with screaming brakes. Involuntarily Joan stepped back, surprised to see Paul Sherman.

"What are you doing here alone?" he asked.

"Waiting for a taxi," Joan replied with dignity.

"Well, jump in, my girl!" Paul ordered cheerfully.

Joan laughed in spite of herself. "Karl has already ordered a taxi. It should be here any minute."

"Forget it," he suggested, "and come with me."

"I'm afraid Karl won't like it."

His brown eyes regarded her seriously. "That matters a great deal to you, doesn't it?"

Joan did not reply. She felt cross and irritable and she was cold.

Paul got out and opened the door of the car. "You may as well let me drive you home. You can't stand here in the rain, you know."

It did seem silly, Joan admitted, climbing in, but as Paul started the car she cried, "I left my purse in the office."

"I'll get it for you," Paul offered.

"And let Karl know you're taking me home? Oh no! I'll go myself."

Joan wondered why everything seemed to interfere with her romance with Karl. Both Paul and Eric seemed bent on making trouble. But she could not be rude to Paul. After all, Karl seemed to like him.

The door of the club was unlocked as she slipped in and hurried down the corridor. Afterwards she wondered what instinct prompted her to pause for a moment as she stood with her hand on the doorknob of Karl Miller's office. The hall was dark, save for the crack of light beneath the door. An open window beside her led to a fire escape, where the rain fell noisily on the metal balcony. Perhaps her hesitation was due to the fear that Karl would be angry with her. Perhaps the uneasy feeling that he might discover Paul was taking her home. But Joan paused and her heart was beating heavily.

It seemed a long time but in reality it was only a few seconds that she stood there listening to Eric Strom's voice.

"Ja, Karl! Bitte!"

Karl's reply was harsh, "Nein, Nein! Es ist verboten."

Joan did not understand but instinctively her hand drew back from the door. This was a private conversation. Karl would not want her to hear.

But her nervous gesture had made a small sound, which Karl Miller's ear caught immediately. He threw open the door with a violent gesture. "Joan! What are you doing?"

"I forgot my purse," she faltered, feeling Eric Strom's sardonic eyes upon her.

Karl's relieved smile reassured her. "Of course! Here it is."

Joan made a hasty exit, closing the door quickly behind her, but as she walked down the dark hall she realized that she was shivering.

"What's the matter?" Paul demanded as Joan got in the car. "You're as white as a ghost."

"Nothing!" But the girl's hands were clasped nervously. "Let's go home, please!"

Joan tried to tell herself that nothing was wrong. Just because Karl and Eric Strom had been speaking in their native tongue was no cause for alarm. Then why this shiver of apprehension that chilled her heart? She loved Karl Miller. She did not want to see anything, hear anything, or believe anything that might make it difficult to love him. She would not confess any fears or doubts even in her own heart. But she found herself saying to Paul, "Do you speak German?"

"So that's it! You overheard Karl!"

"You haven't answered my question."

"And I am not going to," Paul said firmly as he stopped the car in front of her apartment building. "Do you mind if I come in for a minute?"

Joan was not very gracious about it. She was tired and confused. The last thing she wanted was to be forced to listen to Paul's insinuations against Karl.

Paul, however, settled himself comfortably before the fire, lit a cigarette and said, "Joan, why don't you quit working at the club?"

Minister May Get a Part in Warner Movie

Rev. Howell Smith, Ex-Atlantan, Leaves Today for Hollywood.

Rev. Howell E. Smith, former Atlantan and pastor of the Bethel Methodist church from 1935-1937, leaves this afternoon for Hollywood, hoping for the lead part in "One Foot in Heaven," a Warner Brothers picture which will go into production this spring. While in Hollywood last year Rev. Smith became interested in the role, which portrays the life of a Methodist minister. "To be an actor-minister is my ambition. I want to become a vital part of Hollywood's life by interpreting the idea of a practical parson in drama," he added. The Rev. Smith has preached over 500 sermons in Georgia in the past five years.

The Gentleman--

From Chatham... From Thomas... From Emanuel...

Rep. David S. Atkinson, of Chatham.

Rep. Robert E. Chastain, of Thomas.

Constitution Staff Photos--Carolyn McKenzie. Rep. H. A. Woods, of Emanuel.

David Scarlett Atkinson, legislator from Chatham county, came to the general assembly first in 1921. He has served four terms in the house and two in the senate. He attended the University of Georgia and took his law degree at Mercer University and took up his practice of law in Savannah in 1909. He is president of the Savannah Bar Association, president of the University of Georgia Alumni Association and for the past 14 years has been chairman of the Chatham County Democratic Executive Committee. He is married, has four children and one grandchild.

Representative Robert E. Chastain, of Thomas county, is anxious to see aggressive and economical government predominate in Georgia. He enjoys politics and has received much from this session of the general assembly. He is a wholesale oil distributor who thinks it "won't be long before the pipe line bill passes." It's the modern and aggressive thing for the state to do, he says, and thinks Georgia must come to it sooner or later; so why not now. He is 100 per cent interested in the Talmadge program.

Representative H. Alonzo Woods, of Emanuel county, Swainsboro, is anxious for a system to be installed in Georgia whereby the school teachers will be paid 12 months in the year. This system, according to his dreams, would be patterned after a similar plan in use at the present time in the schools of North Carolina. He is a lawyer and is interested in farming. He is interested in the administration of the state government and is an enthusiast for agricultural advancements.
